Fires Rage in Big Pine Forests.

DUE TO LONG DROUGHT

Several Towns In Danger Zone Said to Be Burning.

MANY DEATHS ARE REPORTED

Women and Children Are Sent Southward, While Men Stay Behind to Battle With Hungry Flames That Are Devouring Their Homes--Thousands in Need of Food and Clothing.

Detroit, July 12.—Northern Michigan forests and jackpine plains are burning as the result of the intense heat and drought of the past few weeks, which has rendered everything as dry as tinder. Several towns are reported destroyed and others are menaced by the flames.

A report says Trumbull, a county postoffice of 60 inhabitants, on the Michigan Central railroad in Cheboygan county, was licked up by fierce flames. Flames surround the town of Wolverine and one man, who received word while at his work that his home was afire, found an impenetrable wall of flames when he started for home. He learned before the telephone wires went down that his children had been sent south out of the danger zone.

Messages from Bay City read as follows:

"The city of Alpena, 126 miles north of here, is burning up, and the town of Oscoda, 75 miles north of Bay City, on the Detroit & Mackinac railroad, was entirely destroyed by fire.

"The information from Alpena came when the chief of the Alpena fire department sent the last message received from the north before the wires went down. It read: 'Please send us steamer and hose men, town is burning up.'"

Telephone and telegraph wires are being cut off and women and children are being sent south out of the immediate danger zone on every train. The men in most cases are remaining for a last fight to save their homes.

A third big fire in northern Michigan was reported from Cheboygan, where a veritable mountain of sawdust, the accumulation of 30 years' cutting by several mills, is on fire. It has been burning for a week, but has assumed dangerous proportions. Mayor Woodworth has just received a message from authorities saying that all people of the town can not be removed in time to reach shelter and food and asking him for aid from the citizens of Bay City. Food for 1,500 people is needed, the message said. The message was sent by the Detroit & Mackinac line, who tapped the wires south of Oscoda.

Report Loss of Life.
East Tawas, Mich., July 12.—The first train from the fire-swept town of AuSable brought rumors of the loss of several lives. One hundred survivors were aboard the rescue train. They said several women and children were suffocated by the dense smoke and others lost their lives in the flames.

Body Stops Steamer's Wheel.
Findlay, O., July 12.—The dead body of Della Moore was found in the Blanchard river. It is supposed she committed suicide. The steamer Pastime had stopped to repair its paddlewheel when the body was found in the wheel, stopping the machinery.

Teacher Sent to Jail.
Bellefontaine, O., July 12.—George Pluckett, superintendent of schools at Fletcher, O., has been sentenced to six months' imprisonment in the jail at Troy for contributing to the delinquency of a young girl with whom he went on a joy ride to Sidney.

12 ARE DEAD MANY INJURED IN BIG WRECK

Fast-flying Express Train, Made Up of Nine Vestibule Coaches, Goes Over Embankment--Engineer of Federal Express Was Running at a Rate of Speed, Prohibited by Rules, to Make Up Lost Time.

ENGINEER EXCEEDED LIMIT

Was Making Up Lost Time at Sixty-Mile Clip Over Switch Unable to Stand More Than Fifteen Miles an Hour--St. Louis Ball Team Had Narrow Escape and Worked Like Trojans to Remove Dead and Injured From Wreckage.

THE DEAD.
C. W. Christie, Philadelphia.
Arthur M. Curtis of New York, engineer.

Mrs. Gwenn Olin Rogers and infant son of Washington, D. C.
Walter A. Ryan of New York, fireman of the express.

George Saunders, Norwich, Conn.
Helena B. Walcott, Washington, D. C.

Unidentified woman, about 50 years old.

Unidentified negro passenger, about 30 years old.

Two unidentified men.

One unidentified boy, 3 years old.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 12.—Twelve persons were killed and 50 injured some of them seriously, when the Federal Express, the crack train of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad between Washington and Boston, went over a steep embankment at the Fairfield avenue cut.

The train was behind time and Engineer Curtis was pushing the 10-wheeled locomotive for all it was worth when the train hit a switch connecting the two eastbound tracks. Engineer Curtis and Fireman Ryan were killed. Among those killed was Mrs. Helena B. Walcott, wife of Charles Walcott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institute.

The only explanation offered by the railroad officials was that the high speed was the cause of perhaps the most frightful accident in the history of that line. It was impossible for them to tell whether the switch gave way under the terrific strain or whether the fast running weakened and loosened an axle or burst a wheel. But they placed the responsibility on the dead engineer for driving the train at 60 miles an hour at a point where the regulations call for a 15-mile rate. No cross-over switch ever built was meant to stand against such a strain. It appeared to be simply a case of an engineer who took a chance in order to keep his day's record clear.

Shake Hands With Themselves.

As made up when it left Washington, the train had nine cars—a wooden baggage car, a second baggage car, a wooden day coach and six Pullman sleepers. The two Pullmans at the rear end were occupied by the St. Louis National league baseball team, 22 young athletes under the command of their manager, Roger Bresnahan. Bresnahan and his Cardinals boarded the train at Philadelphia and complained sorely because the trainmen tagged the sleepers to the rear end of the Federal. They protested because they thought it would be hot traveling so far back, but young Mr. Bresnahan, as he stood in pajamas that had been pink but had gotten inky from dirt and sweat, gave thanks that the railroad people didn't do what he asked. Most of the other ball players were as grimy as their boss, because the whole crew had turned out of their sleeper, which wasn't thrown into the cut, and had worked splendidly helping to get injured passengers out of the dreadful tangle of splinters and twisted iron and broken seats. There were perhaps 200 persons on the train, very many of them women and children who were going north for vacations. The third car behind the locomotive—the day coach—was crowded with passengers who hadn't cared to pay extra for Pullman accommodations and who were napping in their clothes when the train shot off the track. Most of the killed were in that car, for it caught the full shock of the plunge and besides was ground against the stone viaduct by two sleepers. Its sides were pinched together in this crushing vice and few of those in it escaped. The people were pinned in their berths and, although not hurt by wood or metal, were suffocated as they struggled to get free.

Big Konetchy, the first baseman of the Cardinals, together with Bliss, the second catcher and Golden, a pitcher, got four people out of one of the wrecked Pullmans.

SAMUEL W. M'CALL

Massachusetts Congressman
Talks to Ohio Bar Association.

M'CALL SPEAKS AT OHIO BAR MEETING

Cedar Point, O., July 12.—It is estimated that not more than 200 of the 750 members of the Ohio Bar association are in attendance at the annual convention, now in session here.

Discussion of the coming constitutional convention is expected to form an important feature of the three days' session. The committee on constitutional convention will report in favor of appointment by the governor, subject to confirmation by the senate of Ohio, of the judges of the supreme court, the number to be increased from six to nine, and this will undoubtedly create hot debate.

The committee will also report against a recommendation designed to prevent delay, technicalities and undue expense of litigation, made by the association at its last meeting.

James R. Keene and John W. Gates
Both Critically Ill In Europe.

James R. Keene and John W. Gates, both of whom have amassed millions through speculation in the stock market and who have been successful on the turf, are critically ill in Europe, and their friends fear that neither will live to return to this country. Gates is in a hotel in Paris, while Keene is in London after spending several months in a sanitarium in Italy. Keene is seventy-three years old and has been quite feeble for three or four years and has spent much time traveling for his health. The above picture is a snapshot of the two men taken at a race track.

that the provision be repealed by which a general exception to a judge's charge to a jury shall apply to all material and prejudicial errors of law in it, although the judge's attention was not directed to such errors.

This afternoon Congressman Samuel W. McCall of Massachusetts will speak on "Representative as Against Direct Government."

Motion Picture Tragedy

Actor Drowns In Sham Rescue of Maiden In Small Pond.

New York, July 12.—Albert Brighton, 35, an actor, was drowned in a lake in the Fox Hills section of Staten Island. He was in the employ of a moving picture concern and at the time of his death was in the act of rescuing a young lady from the waters of Brady's pond, while the operator on the bank sent the film past the lens with lightning rapidity.

Brighton was a good swimmer, as was the young lady who was precipitated into the waters of the pond when the boat in which she was gathering water lilies capsized. Brighton was walking along the shore and at the cue from the operator plunged into the water and swam towards the struggling girl, who was merely treading water. Suddenly he disappeared from view and after a wait of several minutes the operator signaled the actress to swim ashore and the police were notified. After several hours' dredging the body was recovered.

Prominent Cleveland Insane.

Cleveland, O., July 12.—Dayton W. Glenn, former state senator and prominent Republican politician, was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Bouske and Burns on an insanity warrant. Glenn had barricaded himself in his home, locking doors and windows. The deputies overpowered him after they had gained entrance through a basement window.

SHRINERS IN SESSION

Present Retiring Imperial Potentate With Fine Auto.

Rochester, N. Y., July 12.—In spite of a night of celebration the Shriners, who are holding their convention in this city, were about early, assembling for the escort of the imperial divan to convention hall, where the first session was called to order. The session was confined to formal reception of the visitors and addresses and responses.

Damascus temple has set a precedent which will be difficult to follow. Imperial Potentate Fred A. Hines of Los Angeles was given a $3,500 automobile painted and trimmed with the Shrine colors and Deputy Imperial Potentate John F. Treloff of Fargo, N. D., was the recipient of a 40-horsepower car.

DECLARES HE HELPED TO LYNCH ETHERINGTON

Alleged Rioter Arrested in Indiana

IS CAPTURED AT TERRE HAUTE

Employed There Under Name of Walter Berry, but Admits That Real Name Is Walter Diehl and That He Was Ringleader in Mob That Stormed Newark Jail on Night of July 8, 1910—Lived in Constant Fear of Apprehension.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 12.—When arrested Walter Berry, who has been employed here several months, confessed to the police that his real name is Walter Diehl and that he was one of the ringleaders of the mob which on July 8, 1910, hanged Carl Etherington, a "dry" detective, to a telegraph pole in Newark, O., and riddled his body with bullets.

Diehl said he was a member of a crowd of men who had been drinking just before the hanging. One of the men, he said, had proposed that Etherington be hanged for having shot a saloon man. The suggestion, he said, was immediately acted on, and the tragedy for which several men already have paid the penalty was carried out. Diehl said that since the tragedy he had traveled about the country, always in fear of arrest. He said he was ready to go back to Newark to face any charges placed against him. Immediately after Diehl's arrest and confession the authorities in Newark were notified.

Toledo Mayor Returns Prisoners

Whitlock Refuses to Stand For Indiana Extradition Methods.

Toledo, O., July 12.—Toledo established a precedent for the country and Mayor Brand Whitlock dealt a healthy wallop to a time-honored custom when he ordered returned to Indianapolis two men wanted here for swindling, on the ground that they had been illegally taken from the state of Indiana.

It was all about two men, Louis Ravel and Emil Lollen, who are said to have swindled Abdul Chemy of this city out of $800 several weeks ago, and who were caught trying to do the same thing to a citizen in Indianapolis a few days ago. Detective Caird of this city went to Indianapolis to get them, armed with a warrant and a requisition from the governor of Ohio. The governor of Indiana granted the requisition and issued warrants, and the men were taken into police court and identified and ordered turned over to Caird.

Girl Apes Western Bandit.

Akron, O., July 12.—Edna Doble, 13, is under arrest, charged with attempting to hold up the Cuyahoga Falls bank in the most approved western style. She ordered Bookkeeper Gensmer to give her all the money in the vaults, covering him with a revolver at the time. He refused, saying the vaults were locked for the night. The girl backed out of the bank and was quickly arrested.

Elks Pick Leader.

Atlantic City, July 12.—John Patrick Sullivan of New Orleans was elected grand exalted ruler of the Elks. He received 814 votes. Portland, Ore., was selected as the next meeting place.

LIGHTNING-KILLED STEERS TAKEN TO FERTILIZER VATS CONDEMNED BY INSPECTOR

Lightning Bolt Had Torn the Fiber of the Muscles Apart, Leaving Meat in a Condition Unfit for Use as Food—Affair Has Created Great Interest.

PLACED IN STORAGE AS AN EXPERIMENT

The question of whether or not the lightning-killed steers owned by Jesse Cross, were desirable for food purposes, came to an end Tuesday evening when Inspector Wm. Charles Gear, of the State Dairy & Food Department, condemned the carcasses of the five steers which Mr. Cross had placed in cold storage, and they were removed to the Dahl Miller Fertilizer plant Wednesday morning, and consigned to the rendering vat.

Mr. Gear made the second examination of the meat Tuesday, and found that it had soured about the bone, and was otherwise unfit for use. The lightning had apparently torn the fibers of the muscles apart, leaving it in a condition which would cause it to become unfit for use in a few hours' time.

After he had examined the meat and determined that it could not be used for food, he took immediate steps of having it removed to the fertilizer plant, and gave the order necessary for its removal. He then went to the fertilizer plant and saw the meat placed in the room ready to go into the rendering vat.

Mr. Cross was in this city Tuesday, but when asked concerning the storage of the steers, said that he had nothing to say, and had no statement to give out now. He further said that the meat had been placed in cold storage as an experiment.

The affair has created widespread interest, and it is the general opinion that the meat was finally consigned where it belonged.

For the benefit of others who may wish to know the local law on the meat question, Section 17, of Resolution No. 2, passed by the local Board of Health on July 23, 1910, says: "No meat or fish, not being fresh, sound and wholesome, nor any meat or fish that died from disease or accident, shall be brought into the city, offered or held for sale as food, anywhere in the city, nor shall any such articles be kept or stored therein."

The penalty is $100 for the first offense and a more severe fine for each additional offense.

Notable Decrease In Illegal Fishing

"Fewer nets are being used this season to catch fish in the rivers of Ohio than since the Game and Fish Commission was established."

This is the statement of General J. C. Speaks, chief state fish and game warden, who believes the people of the state have become sufficiently interested in the fish laws to assist his department at every opportunity.

"The people won't stand it to have their rivers robbed of fish by those who use nets," said General Speaks. "Fishermen using seines are always caught if they are seen by any one."

A Good Bath For Big Engine

The contractors who are doing the work on the Paint street bridge over Paint creek, just now engaged in building a temporary bridge to be used while the old one is torn down, are having trouble. The trouble came on Monday as the result of a miscalculation on the part of the naval architect who designed the battleship, meant to carry the pile-driver and engine to be used in the work.

A scow was built, presumably large enough to hold all the machinery and on Monday, the workmen proceeded to load a 20-ton engine on it. This was to be followed by the pile driver. The scow proved unequal to the burden and when the 20 tons settled down on it the scow calmly settled down on the bottom in deep water.

The men in charge had a difficult time fishing the heavy engine out of the water. Derricks had to be erected and it was several hours before the engine was hauled on terra firma. A large scow will have to be built before another venture is made. Chillicothe News Advertiser.

In Social Circles

Miss Katharine Mark entertained with delightful hospitality at the beautiful country home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Mark, near Glendon, Tuesday evening.

The storm coming up just at the hour of the party caused considerable disappointment, the arrangements for a garden party having to be changed to an indoor affair and a number of the guests invited being prevented from attending.

The merry evening included a guessing contest, delicious refreshments and punch served constantly. Driving out from here were Misses Ruth McCoy, Alice Parrett, Mary Weaver, Dorothy Fullerton, Katharine Rothrock, Maynard and Harold Craig, Paul Zimmerman, Bliss Casey, Albert Briggs, William Frayne.

Some New Caps For Ohio Guards

The Ohio National Guard will soon be equipped with the light and comfortable olive drab caps to match the new olive drab service uniforms furnished the soldiers by the government some time ago. A requisition for 6000 of these caps was sent to the government by the adjutant general's department, and it is expected that the issue will be received during the coming week.

These will be distributed from the state arsenal just as soon as the requisitions from the company's commander come in. The caps are natty and will complete the color complement of the uniform and leggings.

ESKIMO WIDOWERS.

Six Weeks Is the Limit They Will Wait Before Remarrying.

In civilization it is said that a wife does not always add to her husband's ease or render his life more supportable, but up on the barren grounds the worst of wives would be better than none.

There, among the heathen tribes, if a man's wife dies—provided he is not a polygamist, in which case, says the Wide World, there is less need for hurry—he often marries again within the week.

Even the Christian Eskimo widowers are with difficulty persuaded by the Moravian missionaries to allow six weeks to elapse between the death and remarriage. On the very day after the six weeks have lapsed the hunter presents himself with a new bride and asks that the marriage service may be speedily read.

The reason is not far to seek. It is said in civilization that "a woman's work is never done," and far more is that true of the helpmate of the savage and the semi-savage, the woman of the barren grounds or of the ice edge. She makes and breaks camp, cooks, cuts up and carries to camp her husband's kill. She dresses the skins of deer and seal.

She is responsible for the fashioning of footgear and clothes. On a journey she often paddles the canoe, and on portage she carries a heavy load. In fact, it is easier to write down the duties not expected of a squaw than those which by immemorial custom she must perform.

A Turkish Love Story.

A Turk knocked at his beloved's door, and a voice answered from within. "Who is there?"

Then he answered, "It is I."

Then the voice said, "This house will not hold thee and me."

And the door was not opened.

Then went the lover into the desert, where there is nothing but Allah, and fasted and prayed in solitude.

And after a year he returned and knocked again at the door.

And again the voice asked, "Who is there?"

And he said, "It is thyself."

And the door was opened to him.

D'Orsay and His Tailor.

"D'Orsay, the Complete Dandy," as Mr. Tegnemouth Shore calls him in his biography, was fully aware of the value of his patronage to the tailors. When clothes arrived for him, in the most mysterious manner banknotes had found their way into the pockets. Once, when this accident had not happened, D'Orsay bade his valet return the garments with the message that "the lining of the pockets had been forgotten."

HOW TO BECOME INVISIBLE.

A Sample of the Mummery Used in Ancient Witchcraft.

Some curious formulas of ancient witchcraft are given in Mr. A. E. Waite's "Book of Ceremonial Magic." Here is a recipe for becoming invisible:

"Begin this operation on a Wednesday before the sun rises, being furnished with seven black beans. Take next the head of a dead man. Place one of the beans in his mouth, two in his eyes and two in his ears. Then make upon the head the character of the figure which here follows. (Omitted.) This done, enter the head with the face toward heaven, and every day before sunrise for the space of nine days water it with excellent brandy."

"On the eighth day you will find the cited spirit, who will say unto you 'What doest thou?' You shall reply: 'I am watering my plant.' He will then say: 'Give me that bottle; I will water it myself.' You will answer by refusing, and he will again ask you, but you will persist in declining until he shall stretch forth his hand and show you the same figure which you have traced upon the head suspended from the tips of his fingers. In this case you may be assured that it is really the spirit of the head, because another might take you unawares, which would bring you evil, and further your operation would be unfruitful. When you have given him your vial he will water the head and depart. On the morrow, which is the ninth day, you shall return and shall find your beans ripe. Take them, place one in your mouth and then look at yourself in a glass. If you cannot see yourself it is good. Do the same with the rest or they may be tested in the mouth of a child."

Richard Brinsley Sheridan's Home.

The pick and hammer of the house-breaker are busy now on the old church house at Merton. Few buildings have seen such a whirligig of changes as this. In 300 years or so it has been a farmhouse, a residential mansion, a workhouse infirmary, a French school, a calico stenciling works and a poultry farm. It was once the residence of Richard Brinsley Sheridan, and Nelson is traditionally supposed to have been an honored guest there during his residence in Merton.—Westminster Gazette.

Last Year's Earthquakes.

The Dundee Advertiser in a review of scientific happenings in 1910 says that there were 104 earthquakes recorded by the seismograph at the Royal observatory in Edinburgh. It adds that "the most remarkable shocks recorded were in Iceland, Gulsana, Algeria, Zanzibar and Glasgow. These 104 earthquakes under review merit the title large according to observatory statistics. If we are to include both large and small the total earth disturbances for the year are well over 250."

Scarcely having time to congratulate themselves on their freedom from jail at Columbus, two men giving the names of Calvin Rogers and John Jamison were re-arrested for pocket-picking yesterday and taken to Newark after similar charges against them in Columbus had been dismissed in police court.

At the trial at Newark the two men will be represented by Attorney C. D. Saviers of Columbus, who left with them Tuesday after making the defense here. Rogers and Jamison were charged with having stolen $50 from J. Miller, an East Side resident. They were arrested following numerous reports of pockets being picked on Ohio Electric cars July 4.

The news of the arrest of these two men is of particular interest here because of the fact that the man who has now twice been arrested in Franklin county on the same charge—pocketpicking—less than a year ago was in the same kind of trouble at Cincinnati.

He is reported to be a well known Washington man who in the not remote past, made his living here by his ability to handle "the paste boards" when suckers were plentiful and seining for that stripe of victims not under the ban of official displeasure.

THE OFFICIAL FORECAST CROP CONDITIONS IN STATE BY STATE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE

The following report represents area, prospect and condition of crops named, as compiled from returns received from official correspondents of the State Agricultural Department:

Wheat—Prospects compared with normal yield, 84 per cent.; damage by joint worm, 5 per cent.; area sown last fall, 2,014,180 acres; original area plowed up, 2 per cent.; estimated area for the harvest, 1,990,727 acres.

Oats—Prospect compared with normal yield, 76 per cent.

Corn—Area in 1910, 3,074,292 acres; area compared with last year, 98 per cent.; Total estimated area for 1911, 2,986,625 acres; condition compared with an average, 89 per cent.; damaged by cut worm, 8 per cent.; damaged by white grub worm, 3 per cent.

Clover—Damaged by white grub worm, 5 per cent.

Potatoes—Area in 1910, 143,431 acres; area compared with last year, 93 per cent.; estimated area for 1911, 130,690 acres; condition compared with an average, 78 per cent.

Timothy—Prospect compared with normal yield, 61 per cent.

Pastures—Condition compared with an average, 75 per cent.

Horses—Condition compared with an average, 95 per cent.

Colts—Number compared with an average, 94 per cent.

Cattle—Condition compared with an average, 94 per cent.

Calves—Number compared with an average, 94 per cent.

Wool—Clipped compared with last year, 94 per cent.

Since the issuance of the June report wheat shows a further decline of 4 per cent., the prospect being now estimated at 84 per cent. The report shows that the crop has suffered a damage of 5 per cent. by joint worm. There are also many complaints of damage by Hessian Fly. Of the original area seeded, 2 per cent. was plowed up in the spring. It is now estimated that 1,990,727 acres will be harvested. This should produce approximately 25,083,160 bushels.

Oats shows the same prospect as reported one month ago—76 per cent. This crop has suffered severely by the long continued drought. The harvest will be short from fifteen to twenty million bushels in comparison with the production of last year.

The area planted to corn is estimated at 2,986,625 acres. This is a decline of 2 per cent. in comparison with 1910 area. The crop generally is very uneven. Its growth was retarded by drought. Recent rainfalls have been very beneficial. Its present growing condition is estimated at 89 per cent. Cut and grub worms have damaged corn to the extent of 11 per cent. One year ago the growing condition of plant was estimated at 83 per cent.

Area planted to potatoes is estimated at 130,690 acres. Growing condition 78 per cent. On corresponding date one year ago growing condition was estimated at 93 per cent.

Pastures are in very poor condition, due to severe draught. Timothy prospects estimated at 61 per cent.

Blackberry Season Is Now On Open $2.25 Bushel

The blackberry season has opened up and the berries are now selling in the local markets at $2.25 per bushel and are first class berries.

Reports from the hill counties, which have long been famous for the quality and quantity of their berries, are to the effect that the crop this year is an immense one, and that the berries will be as big, black, juicy and sweet as ever.

Parties from this city and county have made arrangements to drive down into the hills and secure wagon loads of berries for themselves and neighbors. The price for the berries in the field just after they are picked runs from 75c to $1.25 per bushel.

Real D. A. R. Dies Tuesday

Mrs. Hannah Vanderford, who celebrated her ninety-sixth birthday anniversary at her home in Zaleski, Vinton county, Sunday, died Tuesday. Her father was a soldier in the revolutionary war, and since her death there are only 35 daughters of revolutionary soldiers living, so far as known. Until recently three of this number lived in Vinton county.

HEALTH AND FOOD.

A Doctor's Idea of a Perfectly Balanced All Year Round Diet.

That every one is more or less susceptible to tubercular trouble is a matter on which all old fashioned medical authorities are agreed. They tell us that we may pass through a phase and out again without knowing it. According to Dr. T. Y. Hull in the Dietetic Gazette, there is only one thing very certain, and that is that if we keep in good health or adapt ourselves to a perfectly balanced diet the danger is slight.

He advocates a reduction of vegetable food, relying more upon butter, meat and nuts. Here, of course, one has to face the increased danger of tubercular meat, itself probably a large contributory cause of consumption.

This is Dr. Hull's idea of a perfectly balanced diet, calculated to keep the average individual in perfect health all the year round: The basis for the diet is found in meat, eggs, milk, butter, bread, potatoes and fruit. It consists daily of two quarts of milk, five eggs, four ounces of beef, one and one-half ounces of butter, two ounces of nuts (pecan), four ounces of bread, three and one-half ounces of rice, three ounces each of potatoes, peas and oatmeal, one ounce sugar, one ounce raisins, one apple and one orange.

Abrupt.

Judge Stevens had a slight hesitation in his speech, but that affliction did not prevent his using long words. One morning his dog Snip got into a fight with another dog. Tapping him with his cane, Judge Stevens exclaimed, "D-d-d-d-con-t-t-tin-ue."—Success Magazine.

Her Recommendation.

A woman prominent as a social worker was in the city to engage a new girl the other day. She visited an employment agency which makes a specialty of finding places for country housemaids and was much pleased with one from the country.

"Why did you leave your last place?" asked the woman.

"I didn't have no last place," answered the girl, "because I can't find no last place to leave, and I'm still working at it, being for myself that I've been working, and I'm sure I'm a good servant, and I can recommend myself to you, umm." Exchange.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

A clergyman who had neglected all knowledge of nautical affairs was asked to deliver an address before an audience of sailors. He was discoursing on the stormy passages of life. Thinking he could make his remarks more pertinent to his hearers by metaphorically using sea expressions, he said:

"Now, friends, you know that when you are at sea in a storm the thing you do is anchor."

A half concealed snicker spread over the room, and the clergyman knew that he had made a mistake.

After the services one of his listeners came to him and said, "Mr. —, have you ever been at sea?"

The minister replied: "No, unless it was while I was delivering that address."

THE MIDDLE CLASSES.

Rev. John Timothy Stone, of Chicago, announces that "the great danger which faces the home life of today is that children have things too easy, because their parents do too much for them."

This statement is perhaps true and unfortunately it may be supplemented by another statement of fact that another and a larger numbered class of children do not have the benefit of proper home training because their parents are too poor to afford them advantages.

When we add to the class mentioned by Professor Stone—the children whose parents are too rich to bother with them and permit them to live a life of idleness simply because such a course is easier for the pleasure loving parents—that other large class of children who are, from early childhood, compelled to work and drudge at manual labor for their very existence because their parents are too poor to afford them any other life, we have a grand total which includes by far the larger part of the children of the country.

This leaves only the children of the great middle classes whose parents can and do still under present conditions, afford them wholesome advantages. To this class the hope for the future is pinned. The great men and women of this and every other country, as a rule with few exceptions, come from the great middle classes.

That is true now and it has been true in the past, and it promises to be true in the future so far as we can now see into the future.

Professor Stone has announced no great discovery after all. His statement amounts to nothing more than that the future promises to be like the past.

The great, prosperous middle classes have made the history of all nations, they are the back bone of the present progress and promises to continue so in the future.

Ill fares the land which permits conditions to arise which sweeps away that great middle class and makes either princes or paupers of all its people.

IN MEXICO.

All sorts of dire disasters which have been so freely predicted by the pessimists ever since Diaz finally concluded to yield to the demands of his friends and abdicate his rule in Mexico, now bid fair to be proven real, genuine, timely hints.

If a country ever was in turmoil and confusion of all kinds involving both home and foreign relations, poor old Mexico is that country and right now—the present—is the time.

Supposedly wise and thoroughly ambitious statesman of the Reyes, De La Barra type evince no disposition to make a fight for the presidency of the deranged republic. All seem to be willing to stand back and allow the patriot Madero to take hold in these troublous times, resting secure in the belief that the present troubles will shortly culminate and result in the undoing of whoever takes the helm at this time.

Were the Mexican people a different tempered people these wise men might be fooled, but being possessed of the characteristics which make for trouble it is not likely that the intensely patriotic and peace loving Madero will be able to bring order out of the present chaos.

Mexico needs a Diaz to hold the unruly elements in check and until a higher degree of civilization is established and maintained, until the Mexican populace learns to hold itself in check for its own good it is not likely that the republican form of government can endure in aught except name in Mexico.

The present reports of rioting, of famine, of business derangement in the land to the south of us seem not to be overdrawn, and many there are who confidently believe that the realization of Madero's dream is not yet at hand, and that developments of the next few months will prove conclusively that such is the case.

Mexican people seem to require a government in which they exercise no important function.

Correct Many Errors of Teacher and Pupil

By DR. HAROLD J. STEERE
 Chicago

The high school boy who cheats is dishonest and no amount of argument can make him otherwise.

The lesson should be systematically taught and explanations clearly given.

There seems to be much "go as you please" instead of a stated curriculum for each year.

Home work should be given advisedly instead of no home work one day and enough to keep the child up till twelve o'clock at night on another.

When a pupil does anything wrong, whether intentionally or otherwise, he should be punished in accordance.

To give a zero and thus rob a child of his right average because he was guilty of some slight misdemeanor is unfair and is the cause of great discouragement. It disheartens and ruins the school life of many pupils.

Systematic reviews should precede all examinations.

The public schools as a whole are well conducted and good, and what is wanted is a thoughtful correction of errors of both teacher and pupil and not the rabid abuse to which so-called reformers so often resort.

POETRY FOR TODAY

"GIVE THEM A PLACE TO PLAY."

Plenty of room for dives and dens,
 (Glitter and glare and sin)
 Plenty of room for prison pens,
 (Gather the criminals in!)
 Plenty of room for jails and courts,
 (Willing enough to pay;)
 But never a place for the lads to race
 No, never a place to play!

Plenty of room for shops and stores,
 (Mammon must have the best!)
 Plenty of room for the running sores
 That rot in the city's breast!
 Plenty of room for the lures that lead
 The hearts of our youth astray.
 But never a cent on a playground spent,
 No, never a place to play!

Plenty of room for schools and halls,
 Plenty of room for art;
 Plenty of room for teas and balls,
 Platform and stage and mart.
 Proud is the city—she finds a place
 For many a fad today,
 But she's more than blind if she fails
 To find
 A place for the boys to play!

Give them a chance for innocent sport,
 Give them a chance for fun—
 Better a playground plot than a court
 And a jail when the harm is done!
 Give them a chance—if you stint
 them now,
 Tomorrow you'll have to pay
 A larger bill for a darker ill,
 So give them a chance to play!

 of Education.

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

Seasickness.

People who travel by sea are more interested about preventions for seasickness before sailing than they are about remedies when the attack is on. When a sea goes is very sick the victim doesn't care what happens. Nevertheless all who go to sea are interested in preventions and cures. Everybody who has been seasick has a suggestion. Red glasses have been advised. A sheet of writing paper worn over the pit of the stomach is another simple method employed by some. Constant nibbling at salty food, such as salt codfish, is recommended by many. But undoubtedly there are some who will not derive the least benefit from any or all of these. No definite reason has been discovered why some persons are immune from the nausea occasioned by the motion of the boat on the waves when others suffer intensely even though the water is little more than rippled on the surface.

Big Circus Tent Upset by Tornado Animals Thrown in Panic

Bellefontaine, O., July 12.—The John Robinson circus tents were leveled to the ground when a tornado visited this city. The performance had closed and thousands of spectators had just vacated the big tent when the poles swayed in the rush of wind and then crashed to the earth together with a sea of canvas. The menagerie tent soon followed, and the roars of the wild beasts were punctuated by the trumpeting of the frightened elephants. Keepers risked their lives endeavoring to quiet the panic-stricken animals.

The city electric light plant was put out of commission and several houses were struck by lightning. The entire county felt the force of the storm and the crops have suffered untold damage.

Alleged Shortage of $20,000

Cincinnati, O., July 12.—Confirmation was obtained of a report that alleged discrepancies estimated to be from $15,000 to $20,000 exist in the accounts of the Home for Incurables of Cincinnati. A well known club woman is treasurer of the institution. She is under the care of physicians, who state that she is too ill to be questioned on business affairs. John Welton Peck, attorney for the home, said that he did not think any one had embezzled or intended to embezzle a single penny.

Nation Without Saloons Is Endeavorers Plan New Era Before 1920

Atlantic City, July 12.—By the adoption of a resolution condemning the liquor traffic as the "curse of the republic," the International Christian Endeavor convention adopted as its slogan, "A saloonless nation before the Fourth of July, 1920."

The 7,000 persons in attendance cheered when Dr. Francis Clark declared the resolution to be a "new declaration of independence."

Every man, woman and child in the big throng pledged themselves to prosecute the fight.

Former Vice President Fairbanks, in his address before the convention, declared: "If Taft succeeds in winning his fight for universal peace he will win with it a place among the foremost statesmen of the world. It will be a crowning glory to his achievements."

DOINGS IN OHIO

Bonding Company Surrenders.

Columbus, O., July 12.—Using the state treasurer's office as a club, Attorney General Hogan has recovered $25,000 of the $75,000 the state had on deposit in the Farmers' and Merchants' National bank of Cleveland at the time of its failure in 1908, and expects to get the remainder in the same way. The money was paid over by the Massachusetts Surety and Bonding company Hogan requested State Treasurer Creamer not to accept this company as surety for state funds, and when one was turned down the other day the company got busy.

Will Drop Arbitration.

Columbus, O., July 12.—Secretary D. H. Sullivan of the state board of arbitration went to Cleveland today to make a personal investigation of the garment workers' strike. He said he believed arbitration could be brought about. Ex-Secretary Bishop made two fruitless trips to Cleveland. He found the employers in the early stage of the strike would not listen to suggestion of arbitrating the dispute.

Caldwell Girl Missing.

Zanesville, O., July 12.—Flossie Price, 16, left her home in Caldwell Sunday morning to attend church. Since that time nothing has been seen or heard of her and relatives believe that she has met foul play.

Strike Quickly Ended.

Lisbon, O., July 12.—Eight girl finishers employed by the Arter Pad and Harness company, who struck because their wages were reduced 10 per cent on account of the operation of the Green law, which cut their workday from 10 to 9 hours, have won their cause. "We convinced Mr. Arter, who has always been kind to us, that we are doing as much work in nine hours as we formerly did in 10," said Miss Olive Carnes, 18, leader of the strikers.

Hogan Sues Trustees.

Columbus, O., July 12.—Timothy D. Hogan, attorney general of Ohio, filed three suits here to force the construction of Cleveland's long delayed art museum, and to demand an accounting from the trustees under the three art museum funds of the money they have handled. Why Hogan filed the suit was a mystery until City Solicitor Baker admitted that it was he who complained of the procrastination of the trustees.

Naps Win Opener From the Senators

But For Turner's Error Would Have Shut Out Washington

Cleveland, O., July 12.—Falkenberg held Washington to five scattered hits, and the Naps took the first game, 2 to 1. But for an error of Turner's the Naps would have scored a shutout. Pitcher Hughes of Washington was hit on the pitching arm in the sixth inning by a vicious drive from Stovall's bat and had to retire. The exact extent of the injury is not known, but he will probably be out of the game for some time. Graney starred in the field and at bat, scoring both of the runs, and cutting off possible scores by marvelous catches. Score:

Identifies Suicide as Murderer.

Akron, O., July 12.—A man who committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart with a revolver in front of the home of Dr. J. R. Fisher was later identified by Fisher as Antonie Verachla, the man who murdered his wife on North Hill Tuesday morning.

What is the difference between Noah's ark and the ark which the children of Israel had in the wilderness of sin?

Answer—You have probably heard of the preacher who said to his congregation: "I can bring myself to believe that Noah built an ark, in which he and the wild animals were sheltered during the flood, but when it comes to making me believe that the children of Israel toted that ark around on their shoulders in the wilderness for forty years, that's too much for me to swallow." Evidently he thought there was no difference in the two arks.

Noah's ark was a large boat or vessel, larger than any now made. The ark which the children of Israel had in the wilderness was a rectangular box made of wood overlaid with gold, the lid or cover which was made of pure gold. The approximate size of this ark was 4 feet long, 3 feet broad and 3 feet high, a detailed description of it being given in Exodus xxv, 10-22. Inside the ark were kept the golden bowl of manna. Aaron's rod that budded, and the two tables of the Law (See Hebrews ix, 4). The ark, together with all other furnishings of the Tabernacle in the wilderness, was a shadow or picture of good things to come. (See Hebrews viii, 5; x, 1; Colossians ii, 17.)

When Butte Was A Barren Desert.

For five weeks last winter the city of Butte, Mont., was a barren desert. It was the driest place on earth. The water supply was all right, but owing to a strike all the newspapers were suspended.

Butte's experience proved that in this day and age the local newspaper is a public necessity. Nobody knew what was happening. False rumors spread like bad butter. Fake stories about citizens circulated by word of mouth until several duels almost resulted. There were no newspapers to tell the truth about things.

Business suffered worst of all. Merchants tried handbills, which didn't fill the bill. They worked the billboard overtime, but only bored the public. The people cried for newspapers as babies cry for—(See ad.)

For once in the history of the world it was demonstrated beyond peradventure that a town without a live newspaper is a dead one. Stores could not do business without properly advertising their wares, and they could not advertise properly without newspaper space.

Butte merchants are now advertising to make up for lost time. Business men who didn't think much of advertising before have learned its value and are using newspaper space.

The experience of Butte carries a lesson for every other town—this one, for instance:

ADVERTISING PAYS ITS OWN WAY.

CURRENT VERSE

A Daughter of Dixie.
Her eyes are soft with dreams of love,
And dark as some lagoon;
In which, through woven branches, shines
The glory of the moon.
Her silver voice is sweet and low,
Her brow is broad and meek,
And pure as waxen orange flowers
The oval of her cheek.

Her dusky tresses thick and fine,
In many a silken fold,
Are bound about her shapely head
And filled with gold.
Her lips are like the dewy rose
That finds a resting place
Upon her heart, in filmy frills
Of organdie and lace.

A knight of old who crossed the sea
With nothing but his lance,
Bequeathed to her that regal air,
That dark and tender glance.
Oh, daughter of the sunny South,
Where summer never dies,
The North, that never feared your guns,
Surrenders to your eyes!

—Leslie's Weekly.

I Shall Be Satisfied.
I shall be satisfied, if, when
My labors on the earth are done,
And I am called to God again,
Behind me I have left not one
Who harbors bitter thoughts of me
And mutters that I wronged him here;
If I can face Death fearlessly,
And face him with a conscience clear.

I shall be satisfied to die
If I can only leave behind
A few on earth to testify.
That I was honest, patient, kind,
And though I leave no hoard of gold,
And pass, but little known, from here
I'll face Death's angel, stanch and bold,
If I can keep my conscience clear.

I have no wish to rise to fame,
I have no wish to clamber high
And have the world applaud my name;
That will not help me when I die.
I'm satisfied to plod along
And do my best, year after year,
To face the fight, however strong,
But still to keep my conscience clear.

For a Child.

His mind has neither need nor powers to know
The foolish things that men call right
And wrong;
For him the streams of pleasant lovewine flow,
For him the mystic sleep compelling
Through love he rules his love-made universe,
And seen with sight by ignorance made keen,
The fauns and elves whom older eyes
disperse,
Great Pan, and all the fairies with their queen,
Kind gods, I pray, bestow on him this dole,
Not wisdom, wealth, nor mighty deeds
to do,
But let him keep his happy pagan soul,
The poet vision, simple, free, and true,
To hunt the rainbow gold and phantom lights,
And meet with dryads on the wooded heights.

Icarus; Now, as Then.

He soared as surely as an eagle does,
Higher and higher toward the zenith still;
And as he rose a chant came back to us,
An iron monotone of human will
Made audible. When listening was vain,
Breathless we followed him with straining eyes,
Adventurer who claimed as man's domain,
Amazed and impotent, the conquered skies.
"The Prince of Air is tamed! What hinders men,
We cried, "from traversing that upper world in quest of unimaginable things?"
From awful silence came the answer
then,
As like a challenge at our feet was hurled
Our champion dead, with broken, silent wings.
—Amelia Johnson Burr in the Century Magazine.

A Maiden.

Oh, if I were the velvet rose
Upon the red rose vine,
I'd climb to touch his window
And make his casement fine.
And if I were the little bird
That twitters on the tree,
All day I'd sing my love for him
Till he should harken me.
But since I am a maiden
I go with downcast eyes,
And he will never hear the songs
That he has turned to sighs.
And since I am a maiden
My love will never know
That I could kiss him with a mouth
More red than roses blow.
—Sara Teasdale in Lippincott's Magazine.

Neglected Love.

He caught a glimpse of love one day,
But resolutely turned away;
"Not yet," he said, "for love's sweet sake,
For I must first my fortune make."
The days to months, the months to years,
Kept record of his hopes and fears;
With one set purpose, still in view,
Fair Fortune he did fondly woo.

At last, his hair all silvered o'er,
He felt he needed something more,
And sought love in the old, old way,
And sought in vain from day to day.

For love is coy, and love is kind,
But those who earnestly would find,
Must seek her, all things else apart,
Love loves an undivided heart.

The Hungry Heart.

Give me new love, ye golden hours,
To charm dull care away!
I care not for those withered flowers—
The loves of yesterday.

Give me the new light in the eye,
The lips I have not kissed,
The eager word, the new-born sigh—
The old shall not be missed!

I'll gather me rosebuds while I may,
For Spring is on the hills!
And if she takes the rose away
I'll—gather daffodils!

Old wine, old friends—I approve—
Old books, old songs, old art!
But give me this day my daily love,
For mine is a hungry heart.

The Object of Work.

Loving! What claim to love has work of mine?
Concede my life were emptied of its gains
To furnish forth and fill work's strict confine
Who works so for the world's sake—he complains
With cause when hate, not love, rewards his pains.
I looked beyond the world for truth and beauty!
Sought, found and did my duty.
—Browning.

DOCTORING A DIAMOND.

Trick That Makes a Yellow Stone Appear Clear Blue White.

Let me show you a little trick that I would advise you not to put into practice, said a jewel fancier to a number of friends the other day.

The conversation had turned to diamonds during the midday luncheon, and the expert had been holding forth on his favorite subject. The little group of St. Louisans were interested still more when the speaker drew a big solitaire from his finger and beckoned a waiter across the cafe.

"Bring me a glass of water and an indelible pencil," said he when the servitor came over to the table.

"This is a trick that is essentially crooked," said the jewel fancier, "and will get by nine times out of ten even when the examiner is an expert at judging precious stones and detecting trickery. It will make a yellow 'off color' diamond look like a stone of the very first water. Pawnbrokers innumerable have been fooled by this same trick, as it is extremely difficult to detect even with a powerful glass."

The expert took the pencil and allowed the indelible lead to dissolve in the glass of water. In a couple of minutes the water was as blue as indigo water.

"Now watch," said the man who knew the lore of jewels.

He took the ring and dropped it into the glass. Its brilliancy was dimmed by the hazy, bluish water until it looked like a dead stone.

"Now, you noted," said the demonstrator, "that the diamond I placed in there was a bit yellow. It will be a clear bluish white when it comes out of its bath."

At the end of a minute the stone was taken out. The top of the gem was dried with a soft handkerchief and then the ring was waved to and fro for a few moments. It was held up for inspection. Not a gleam of yellow was to be seen. The stone was apparently a magnificent blue white gem that any one would be proud to own and loathe to pledge.

"It is the blue pigment deposited on the back of the stone that has made the difference," said the jewel expert.
"The deposit is so slimy that a strong glass cannot detect it. You cannot see it from the rear of the mounting and only a bath of alcohol will remove it.
It will stay on the gem for weeks if it is not removed in that way. It used to be a favorite trick of many folks who now and again had to put a diamond into the hands of a pawnbroker."

"The trick is called 'doctoring a stone,' but, as I said in the beginning,
I would not advise you to try it. I don't know what the law on such matters is in Missouri, but there are states where a person convicted of such an offense would serve a long penitentiary term for his cleverness."—
St. Louis Republic.

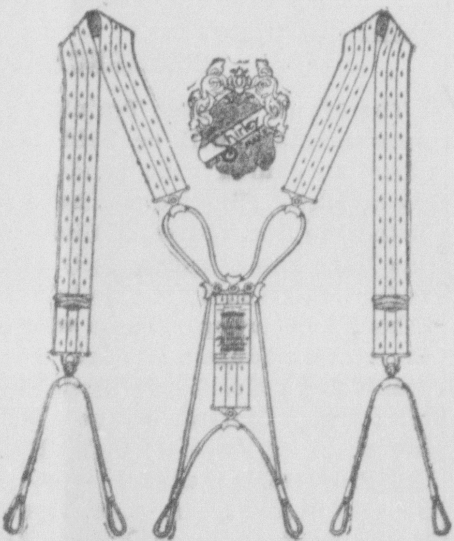

Where the Danger Lay.

"I understand you had a narrow escape at the seashore last summer?"
"Yes; I rescued a woman from drowning."
"Came near marrying you, eh?"
"No; she was married."
"Then where does the narrow escape come in?"
"She had a son-in-law."—Houston
Post.

Turbulent Storm Clouds Cause Much Uneasiness Among Nervous Citizens

The boiling, restless, ugly storm cloud which swept down upon this city from the northeast Tuesday evening just before dark, was closely watched by hundreds in this city, and a great deal of restlessness was apparent as the seething, roaring clouds flew over the city, bringing great clouds of dust and waves of hot and cold air, which are indicators of cyclonic conditions.

Beyond a severe wind a small amount of rain the clouds passed harmlessly overhead, to the evident relief of everyone. The clouds were the worst appearing of the season.

Murder Committed In Self-defense

Pickaway township, Pickaway county was the scene of a tragedy late Monday afternoon when Samuel Famulener, a land owner, was stabbed to death by Robert Hinton, a tenant, when he attacked Hinton.

A few days previous to the fatal encounter, the two men had come to blows during an altercation, and Hinton thrashed his antagonist, but did not injure him to any extent. Famulener vowed he would "get even" and Monday afternoon attacked Hinton without warning, and Hinton used his pocket knife, stabbing his antagonist under the right arm and severing an artery. Famulener died within a hour.

BIRTHDAY DINNER.

An event of the utmost pleasure occurred at the country home of Mr. Abram Colaw, Sunday, when children and friends gathered to remind him of his 65th birthday.

The guests, numbering 48, came from Eber, Milledgeville, Plymouth, Bowersville and Washington, bringing with them well filled baskets, containing all kinds of good things for the picnic dinner.

Mr. Colaw was the recipient of a number of useful and much appreciated presents.

The guests departed expressing their enjoyment of the delightful day and wishing the genial host many more happy birthdays.

Besides relatives Mr. and Mrs. Fultz, son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Todhunter and daughter, were present.

After Ten Years Passed Xenia Man Is Arrested For Murder of Southerner

Edward Long, familiarly known as "Pink Long," who for the past ten years had been living in Xenia in seeming security from the stern hand of the law, was arrested Friday and Friday evening was taken to Yanceville, Caswell county, North Carolina, where he will have to answer to a charge of first degree murder. The crime was committed ten years ago and Long fled to Xenia. He was tracked there by the officers at that time, but they failed to bring requisition papers to have the man taken back for trial. The matter was then dropped and for several years Long has been an employe of the Pennsylvania railroad and has been faithful and trustworthy in his duties. When Sheriff F. N. Fitch was elected to his office as sheriff of Caswell county, he found the old case against Long, and in company with Deputy G. A. Walker came to Xenia with requisition papers to take Long back to answer to the charge. It seems that in a quarrel during a gambling game Long had shot and killed his companion, Clem Settle, another negro.

Long is 35 years of age and has a wife living in Xenia.

Emblematic Block Placed in Position

The immense stone bearing the three links and the words "Odd Fellows Temple" was placed into position six feet above the third story window on the Odd Fellows' temple Tuesday. This interesting piece of work was watched by quite a crowd as the stone was slowly hoisted through the air by the big derrick. It was thirty minutes from the time it left the ground until it was resting securely on the wall far about the street.

When the stone arrived it was found that the design was not exactly right, and that the lettering was not large enough. Stone cutters were put to work on the block and the letters were enlarged, and the letters "F. L. T." inserted in the three links, making the block appear to better advantage.

Barn Destroyed By Lightning Bolt

Last night, between eight and nine o'clock, during the severe electrical storm which raged in the Northwestern section of the county, lightning struck the barn of Mrs. R. A. Chitty and in the fire which followed the barn and all contents were entirely consumed.

The mow was filled with new hay and besides there was quite a quantity of grain and some few implements in the barn. Fortunately no live stock was held in the barn at the time of the fire.

Loss on barn and contents is estimated at about $1000.00, only partially insured.

NEW KIND OF OUTLAWRY FOR THIS QUIET SECTION BREAKS OUT IN GREENE COUNTY

According to the Xenia Daily Gazette a new brand of outlawry for this section has made its appearance over in Greene county.

The Gazette says: "Cattle thieves began operations in this county Monday night, when they visited the farm of Fred Bryant, near Clifton, and stole four fine cattle, a six year old Jersey cow and three yearling steers, two black and one red. The animals were taken from pasture, and were driven past the house to the road. From Clifton they went toward Cedarville, and were seen passing through that village, about 3 o'clock in the morning. There appeared to be two men in the party, one on foot and one in a buggy.

When the theft of the cattle was discovered early Tuesday morning, the authorities of all the surrounding towns were notified. Knowing that the thieves were some place in the vicinity of Cedarville, Wiley Kennon, the marshal of that village, telephoned to Dayton for blood hounds, which were brought over by Ora Harrison, and put on the trail at Clifton. They followed the trail to Cedarville, and from there toward Jamestown. At 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, the thieves were still at large, the work of the dogs having proved fruitless.

Marshal Zeiner, of Jamestown, arrested Gus Franks, of near that place, on suspicion of knowing something about the theft, but he was later discharged.

Mr. Bryant who was in Xenia Tuesday afternoon announced a reward of $50 for the arrest and conviction of the thieves."

Amusement Company Survives Storm

The heavy wind storm of last evening played havoc with some of the tents of the Weider Amusement Co., pitched on the old Fair grounds. A few were blown down, allowing the rain to saturate tents and goods considerably, but no serious damage was done. After the storm passed over men soon placed everything in order, and the bright morning sun found the amusement grounds looking very inviting. The Red Men, under whose auspices the Carnival is being held, expect a banner attendance tonight.

Harpers Station Well Being Drilled Deeper

The drill is being sent deeper in the oil well at Harper's Station in Ross county, and drilling will not be discontinued until the drill passes through the present strata of rock in which the flow of oil was struck.

If a greater flow of oil or gas is not encountered the well will be plugged below the spot where the oil was found, and the hole will then be shot and thoroughly tested out.

No new wells have been started, and the companies having territory under lease will await the shooting and further development of the well now being sunk to a greater depth by the Herod's Creek Gas and Oil Company.

The Tourists Enjoying Trip

A telegram was received this morning from Col. B. H. Millikan, of the Dahl-Millikan Grocery Co., who is personally conducting the Dahl-Millikan outing, announcing the arrival of the party at the Thousand Islands.

The telegram reports splendid connection, reaching every place on schedule time. Everybody is well and excellently located, and the weather fine, cool and bracing.

Letters and post-cards from the fortunate tourists give more in detail the same news and the trip seems to be more than fulfilling early anticipations.

TRAINING CLASS COMMENCEMENT.

The fourth Teacher Training class commencement will be held in the Christian church next Sunday evening at 7:30. Nine persons have completed the first course of Bible study and have passed successfully the examination given by the State Sunday School Association. Havoc Wrought By Bee Swarm David McElroy, a young farmer residing on the Jackson road near Clifton, over in Greene county, was attacked by a swarm of bees while working with the hive. Trying to fight the insects off he ran into a corn field near by where he fainted from pain and for some time lay exposed to a heavy rain storm which broke soon afterward, his plight not being discovered until several hours had passed. Dr. Messenger, of Xenia was called and gave medical attention, finding the man terribly stung about the head and face and all exposed parts of the body. It is thought that the injuries will not prove serious.

A Wedding Ring Superstition.
Although there was a lifelong friendship to back up their business deals, the jeweler was not surprised when his old customer who had married a second time bought the wedding ring at another shop.

"If he should take a third wife he would buy the ring at still another store," the jeweler said. "That is one of the superstitions of the trade. A man may have the marrying habit ever so bad and require several wedding rings in his time, yet he never buys any two of them from the same place. Jewelers do not expect it. They don't want to sell two wedding rings to the same man. Bad luck would surely light on all concerned, and there is enough trouble in the world anyhow without deliberately inviting more of it by defying a good old wedding ring superstition."—New York Times.

FOLLIES OF SCIENCE.

Seven Problems That Have So Far Baffled Man's Mighty Brain.

The history of science has seven problems that men in all ages more or less have tried to solve, but which have finally been given up by all. To day they are called follies.

The usual list comprises the following: First, squaring the circle; second, duplication of the cube; third, trisection of an angle; fourth, perpetual motion; fifth, transmutation of metals; sixth, fixation of mercury; seventh, elixir of life. Some lists put the philosopher's stone for the last three and then add astrology and magic to make the seven.

To the unlearned it would seem possible to draw a square which shall be exactly equal in area to a given circle, which is the first problem in the list, but we are told by the highest authorities that it is impossible.

Since the discovery of radium it is claimed that the change of one metal into another has been accomplished, but it is yet too early to dogmatize about the matter.—Chicago Journal.

Learn to Think on Your Feet.

It does not matter whether one wants to be a public speaker or not, a person should have such complete control of himself, should be so self reliant and self poised, that he can get up in any audience, no matter how large or formidable, and express his thoughts clearly and distinctly. In all ages oratory has been regarded as the highest expression of human achievement. Young people, no matter what they intend to be, whether blacksmith or farmer, merchant or physician, should make it a study. Nothing else will call out what is in a man more quickly and more effectively than the constant effort to do his best in speaking before an audience. When one undertakes to think on one's feet and speak extemporaneously before the public the power and the skill of the entire man are put to the severest test.—Success Magazine.

Melodramatic.

A dramatist was condemning two melodramas that had had an unmerited success among the less cultivated portion of the public.

"The first," said the dramatist in his epigrammatic way, "was all blood and thunder, and the other was all mud and blunder."

IMP In The Sultan's Garden Marine Drama
In this picture the Imp Co. has eclipsed all former efforts in the way of an Oriental production. Sparing no pains or expense to put it on with the proper settings and atmosphere. The crew and boats of a war ship were placed at the disposal of the director, and the jacksies and many of the officers are in reality United States Marines. The scenes in the harem are of Oriental splendor, correctly costumed—truly an elaborate picture.

Some startling incidents in the life of the Rev. James Caldwell, the fighting parson of New Jersey, the hero of the Battle of Springfield, have been rescued for the first time from the oblivion of a century and a half, and are here presented by the Champion players with an adherence to historical verity and correctness of detail that is truly wonderful YIELDED TO EDMUNDS.

Cleveland's Political Foe Won After His Friends Had Failed.

Soon after Mr. Cleveland entered the White House in 1885 Vice President Hendricks died at his home in Indianapolis, and the president made arrangements to attend the funeral. Many of his social intimates and all his official advisers united in an effort to dissuade him from making this twenty hour journey, enlarging on the manifold risks of rail travel at all times and the special opportunity this would offer some fanatic to assassinate him. But he remained immovable until within a few hours of the time set for closing up his business he received an unexpected call from Senator Edmunds of Vermont.

Mr. Edmunds was the leader of the Republican side of the senate and was understood to have in preparation several measures of opposition to the announced policies of the new administration. But he was also and above all else an American citizen and a patriot, and his visit to his political foe was made in that character. In a conversation of less than half an hour, in which he drew the curtain over all differences and disregarded all empty formalities of intercourse, he laid before the president in the clear terms and logical order in which he knew so well how to express himself the larger aspects of the situation.

As the presidential succession law then stood the speaker of the house of representatives stood next in line to the vice president, and next to him came the president pro tempore of the senate. The house not having organized since the inauguration, no speaker had been elected, and the senate having failed at its special session to choose a president pro tempore to serve during the recess, only one life—that of the president himself—stood between the nation and administrative anarchy; hence, argued Mr. Edmunds, it was Mr. Cleveland's duty to forego every other consideration and invite no chances of throwing upon the country they both loved a strain such as it had never been subjected to before.

The writer of these lines was seated in the next room while this visit was in progress, and he will never forget the president's expression of satisfaction on coming out of his office after the senator had gone. He gave orders at once that all preparations for his journey should be suspended and declared that nothing that had occurred since he entered the White House had so touched him as the kind solicitude shown by Mr. Edmunds about his exposing himself to any peril now. The others who had reasoned with him on the subject were men who were presumptively friendly and whose chief anxiety seemed to be lest he should suffer some injury to his individual person or fortunes. But here was a man who, as far as politics was concerned, was a hostile of hostiles, yet who appealed to him in behalf of the American people and their government.

"That settled it," Mr. Cleveland concluded as he turned to go back to his office. "After what Edmunds said there can be no further question of where my highest obligation lies."—F. E. L. in New York Post.

Soft Toned Bells of China.

The natives of China use large bells of their own make in many of their temples and monasteries. I have noticed all through Japan and China that the tone of the monastery and temple bells is very soft and smooth, due to the superior quality of the material used in their manufacture and to the absence of iron clappers, the result being a marvelous softness and mellowness of tone. The bells are never swung, being always suspended in a fixed frame, and the sound is produced by striking them on the outer edge with a wooden mallet. This makes the soft tones which are so delightfully melodious.—Consular Reports.

Dr. Holmes' Wit.

One of the best repartees ever credited to a habitual maker of happy phrases was that made by the beloved "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table" on a certain social occasion.

Going to dine with a Boston neighbor, Dr. Holmes was met by her with an apology:

"I could not get another man. We are four women, and you will have to take us all in."

"Forewarned is fourarmed," he said with a bow.

Flies and Filth.

The fly is born in, lives and thrives upon filth. If no filth is allowed to accumulate in a house or its neighborhood it will not be troubled by flies, for they do not ordinarily stray far from their breeding places and their sources of food. In a thoroughly clean neighborhood they cannot live in the face of screens preventing their access to food and to the absence of manure heaps and other receptacles for filth in which to deposit their eggs.—Survey.

THE KING CAN DO NO WRONG.

Neither Can He Ever Die, According to British Law.

It is a curious point of British law that the king never dies, or, to put it in another way, it would be useless for any barrister to argue that the ruler's predecessors have really died, since the utmost the law will admit is that there may be a "demise of the crown," meaning, of course, simply that there has been a transfer of the royal authority from one person to another.

It is a maxim that "the king can do no wrong," and under the law he would not be held personally responsible for any crime or "tort" that he chose to commit at any time. At any rate, we are assured by high constitutional authorities that the law should actually and literally be so construed and that the statutes hold that any injury his majesty might inflict upon a subject must be ascribed to the king's advisers. One thing seems to be certain, and that is that his majesty can under no circumstances whatsoever be arrested. Nor, moreover, could his goods be distrained or taken in execution should he fail to meet his liabilities.

A quaint feature of British law is that in theory the king is present at the law court at every sitting, though he might in point of fact actually be on the continent or elsewhere. It follows, therefore, that it is impossible to non-suit him as plaintiff should he not put in an appearance when his case is called, since the law specifically states that the king is there. In a similar sense the king is always constructively present in parliament, though he be in fact thousands of miles from his shores.

His majesty is under the law the nominal guardian of all infants, idiots and lunatics, and to him is granted the sole right to print the Bible, the Book of Common Prayer and all acts of parliament in the United Kingdom. It has been stated, furthermore, that should he so desire the king could forbid the printing of any or all of them anywhere within his dominions.—Harper's.

MINED THE ROAD.

The Volunteers Wiped Out the Foe, but It Was a Sad Story.

"I can tell you the saddest thing that happened during the whole war," said an old negro to a group of listeners. The story was this. One night it was reported that the town was in peril of attack from the enemy, and the fighting forces were quickly mustered. One of the volunteers conceived the idea of mining the road and touching the fuse in time to annihilate the foe. There was plenty of powder, and the scheme was adopted. The rest of the defenders stood some on one side of the road, some on the other, ready to discharge their rifles into what might be left of the assailants.

The day passed without incident, but as the night wore on the strain of the situation began to tell on the nerves of the defenders. Presently, however, there was the sound of hoofs on the highway, approaching rapidly. Such was the state of mind of the defenders that the sounds appeared to indicate the coming of a mighty cavalry force. It was a terrifying moment. A vivid flash lighting up the scene as the first horseman reached the spot told that the mine had been exploded and it had done its work. There was not a vestige of an army to be seen when the smoke cleared away excepting the scattered fragments of a big black mule.

The party laughed as the old man concluded his tale. "That's a good enough story," said one of them, "but what was there so sad about it?"

"It was my mule, sah," was the old negro's pathetic reply.

A Battle of Languages.

Three or four languages strove for mastery in ancient Gaul, which is now France. German was spoken by the 12,000 Frank invaders. Popular Latin was spoken by 6,000,000 Gallo-Romans. Literary Latin was the language of the church and of literature. Low Latin was afterward the language of the administration. German was the first to succumb. In four centuries it ceased to be understood by the soldiers, and in seventy years more it had become an object of ridicule. But it survives in more than 900 words, expressing the things of government, law and war, and thus forms no insignificant part of the French language.

Corpse Rings.

The sailor of the old fashioned, shell-back class always wears a corpse ring. This is a plain band of silver or gold, inscribed within with the sailor's name and port. Corpse rings are worn for the purpose of identification in case of death by drowning through shipwreck, etc. The shell-back sailor can never swim, and he looks forward calmly to dying suddenly beneath the sea. Indeed, he usually prefers such a death to a lingering one in hospital.—Buffalo Express.

SAYS ED HOWE

A reporter gets up on the game laws to impress his friends. When he hunts himself he must hunt news.

Some men meet an appointment ahead of time so they can loaf a few minutes before the other man arrives.

However, a man must do something more than keep the scissors sharpened, in order to qualify as a good husband.

Besides helping himself, a man who is good at that is usually expected to furnish some assistance for his kin and friends.

If a boy feels he is worth a good deal more than he gets when he begins to learn a trade, chances are he will never learn it.

"Some boys never grow up to be men," remarks a Kansas philosopher. "They remain boys until they are 35 or 40 and then become old women."

DON'T LOOK FOR THORNS.

Think of this if you are ever tempted to discourage and sadden others.

And when you come to think of it, a few encouraging words cost nothing, and are just as easy to say as the discouraging words that come so readily to our lips.

Make up your mind to look for the bright side of things always, and you will be surprised to find what a difference it will make, not only to yourself, but to other people.

And, anyhow, nobody likes the person who persists in acting as a "wet blanket," so if you have got into the habit, get out of it as quickly as possible, and start to cheer and encourage people instead.

THE NEW YOKE SKIRT.

The yoke skirt is one of the most becoming of styles, and just at present it is one of the most popular as well. Our illustration shows one of these skirts with the round yoke extended at each side in a square tab and on one side the skirt is fastened with buttons and buttonholes. The lower part of the skirt is a deep kilt plaiting extending all around. This skirt is one which will be rich in any material, and it is especially suited to satin, taffetas, linen, pongee, foulard, voile, cheviot, panama and other light weight woollens as well as to many of the wash materials with good body.

The pattern (5143) is cut in sizes 22 to 30 inches, waist measure. Medium size requires 8 3/4 yards of 44 inch material.

To procure this pattern send in cents to "Pattern Department," of this paper. Write name and address plainly, and be sure to give size and number of pattern.

Stovall Has Made Good.

The work of First Baseman George Stovall as acting manager of the Cleveland club has proved so satisfactory that President Somers has announced that he sees no reason for making any change and has no intention of looking elsewhere for a manager. Since Stovall became leader of the club, succeeding McGuire, the team has won most of its games. It is said perfect harmony prevails among the players.

Ball Team to Tour Japan.

The far west and the middle west appear to contain the only big universities ambitious regarding foreign baseball tours. Announcement comes from the University of California that there is a possibility of that university sending a baseball team to Japan. The Californians are to make the trip at the invitation of Waseda and Kelo universities. The trip, however, will not be made until 1912. Although no definite announcement has been made that the team will be sent to Japan, the project leaked out. The athletic authorities at California wished to keep the matter one of secrecy until definite action was taken and the trip made a certainty. It is said on the coast, however, that the trip is a surety.

A man of merit:
"Life is an interval of effort seldom rewarded with success."

The Profit in It.

Question of Quality.

"Here's a professor that says cigar smoking leads to insanity."
"Huh! I should think the kind you smoke would lead to murder!"—Browning's Magazine.

Made Him Punctual.

Mme. Durand used to wait for her husband at a street corner, but he kept her waiting such a long time every day that she tried giving him a rendezvous in a big dry goods store, and now it is astonishing how punctual he is.—Pele Mele.

THE CIRCULATION DEPARTMENT

of THE HERALD is now at work redistricting the city to facilitate the distribution of the paper each evening. Under the new plan all carriers in the outlying districts will proceed at once to their territories, instead of serving portions of the up-town district, as at present.

The change has been made imperative by the

Rapid Increase in The Circulation of The Herald Which Now Covers The Whole City Like a Blanket

It means that additional carrier routes will be established, and that all subscribers will get their papers earlier in the future, for the reason that subscribers will not be obliged to wait while the overloaded carriers drag over large districts.

The change will lighten the loads of the boys and give almost simultaneous distribution.

Some few days will elapse before the entire plan can be put into effect and the carriers learn their new routes, but in a short time everything will be working smoothly.

If you are not now a subscriber to the DAILY HERALD telephone your order in and you will be promptly served.

His Answer.

Pat, who was noted for a quick tongue, was digging potatoes when the parish priest came by. By way of a pleasant salutation the priest said:

"Good mornin' to ye, Pat, and what kind of potatoes are ye diggin'?"

"Raw ones, your riv'rinee."

"Och, ye're so smart. I'll just give ye a question on the catechism. What is baptism?"

"It used to be four shillin's afore ye came, but now it's twenty shill in's."—The Circle.

When you buy new window shades get them or have them made a foot longer than you really need. Then, when the hem wears out—as it will—cut off the torn part, reverse them, and they will look like new and wear twice as long as they otherwise would, as practically no wear except from rolling comes on the top and middle.

Help.

Miss Casey—And when we are married, papa, we are going to build a bungalow. We are saving for it now.

Casey—And O'll help ye, Mary. Shure, O'll begin savin' the bungs now, though 't will take a long time to save enough to be av iny use.—Puck.

A Polite Request.

"Madam, may I ask you to remove your hatpin?"

"Sir, you are rude!"

"Doubtless, madam, doubtless; but the discomfort of standing in a swaying car with your hatpin through the rim of my ear must be my excuse. Perhaps my ear is too large, anyhow."

Not to His Taste.

"I ain't felt at home in this heah elevator, sence dey painted it wite inside," announced the elevator boy, glancing disapprovingly at the enamelled sides of the tiny compartment. "Looks to me mo' like a coffin or a sody foun'in dan a elevator."

Happened at Bridge.

"That rich heiress let me hold her hand last night."

"You must be pretty strong with her, eh?"

"No, it was a put up job. Her hand was a bum one, yet she blamed me for losing the game."

No Satisfying Him.

"Ah!" he sighed, "if you only gave me the least hope I—"

"Gracious!" interrupted the hard-hearted belle. "I've been giving the least I ever gave to any man."—Catholic Standard and Times.

A THIRTY-TWO-INCH COAT.

Although the very short jackets are worn by the majority there are always many women who prefer not to adopt any extreme style and these will prefer a coat of the length of the model illustrated herewith. This extends well below the curve of the hips. The fronts are plain, cut away a little at the bottom and finished at the top with revers, which join a flat, straight collar. The regulation pieces fit the back and the side gores are extended in broad pleatings, which may be used or omitted as the other gores are complete underneath them. The sleeves are small and finished with a cuff. Serge, cheviot, satin, pongee and linen are suitable materials for this coat.

The pattern (4967) is cut in sizes 32 to 42 inches bust measure. Medium size requires 3 1/2 yards of 54 inch material.

THE INJUSTICE OF WAR

Colonel Henry of this town gave a little talk on the war, Thursday evening last—Major General Hanes, who was to have been the orator of the evening, being unable to come.—OLD NEWS ITEM.

I heard the Colonel's little talk. It was not much about the war, after all. I think the Colonel got mixed, not being a public speaker. And, by the way, he wasn't a Colonel; that is just the name he went by.

"Fellow citizens and soldiers," he began. "I never once felt fear during the war. But I feel it now. It's easy to talk about taxes down in the town hall on Election Day, but standing up here in a pulpit is different."

The Colonel stopped. He seemed to be groping among his thoughts to find a lead he could safely follow. Then he straightened up and threw his head back. His nostrils dilated. I've seen a horse do the same thing on a race track. It's a sign either of winning or of a mighty interesting run. I knew the Colonel had found his text.

"As you know comrades and friends, I was born here in Campton; so was my father, and his father, and so on back to the founding of the town. When I was born, father and mother lived down along the river, in the little house opposite Masy's Mill.

"Some of you are old enough to remember the trouble they had when the scarlet fever epidemic of '44 struck this town. We were seven children, and they all died but me.

"Not much schooling in those days. Father farmed it, by hard work, and our living was scanty. I went to work as long ago as I can remember. On Sundays I used to come to this meeting-house with mother. She was a quiet woman, but uncommon good, and she loved me for the six children she had lost. Our pew was the front one on my right. Kind of conspicuous I admit, but we hired it because it was cheap—four dollars a year. Even four dollars came hard in those days.

"I worked on the farm with father in good weather, and tried to get a little schooling in the winter. But as I look back, it seems to me now as if I never had any time to myself. However, work didn't hurt me any.

"We had a good man here for minister in those days—Aaron Baker. He tried his best to get me into the 'right life,' as he called it. But I never could see it. He sort of led me to read the Bible and hymns, and religious books.

"Working in the fields, ploughing and harvesting, I used to think about what these books said, and I got the notion into my head that for foolish, impossible ideas, religious books took the prize over all other exhibits. When Mr. Baker talked to me about them, I told him just what I thought about the whole business.

"Where's the logic? I said to him, of turning the other cheek when man bats you on one side of the head?"

"What's the use of running in that leaves and fishes story TWICE? Isn't once a hard enough strain on a man's belief?"

"What do these hymn writers mean by doing the worm of the dust description so often? You don't act like a worm of the dust when you've had a couple of glasses of cider for supper with father and mother. You're as bold and free as a lawyer."

"And so I used to get after the minister. But he took it in good part, and always used to say:

"Be patient; with God, and He will no doubt be patient with you. I believe in you."

"Then the war broke out. I was twenty-one in April, '61. On the morning of my birthday, father got up from the breakfast table, went out into the shed and got down his musket. He came back with it in one hand and some money in the other.

"He handed both to me and said: 'The country needs you, and so do you mother and me, but the country's in bigger trouble than we are just now. When you come home again, I'll give you the thirty-acre lot, and you can marry Mary Ellen and settle down—UNLESS YOU GET SHOT IN THE BACK!'

"Some of you remember my father. He said what he meant the first time, and there were no repeats. Mother was crying. I looked at them both took the musket and the money, and went out. Father shut the door and locked it.

"I walked fourteen miles to Brockton and enlisted. But, before I left for the front, I sent the money back home. There was just four dollars—and I remembered the pew rent was due on the first of May.

"Boys" we fought a good fight. I don't need to talk about it. We did our duty as we saw it, and no man from Campton disgraced himself. Our own particular names ain't set down in histories; but what we helped to do is down there. All but one thing. That is WHAT EACH OF US WAS THINKING ABOUT.

"In my case it was of the injustice of war as a means of settling family disputes. The noise of guns and cannons, the crazy way we rushed on to kill and be killed made me wonder whether there was really a power on high who would let such things happen day after day, month after month, and not stop it, with his all-powerful reputation.

"It took me some time to get this set straight in my head; but, comrades, I heard the Gettysburg speech, and after that I saw that I was a poor judge of big things.

"When my time was up, I went home by train to Brockton, and made the fourteen miles here to Campton on foot. When I walked down Neponset street it was about 9 o'clock in the evening. I went around to the back of the house and looked in at the kitchen window.

MARRIED LIFE, SECOND YEAR

Warren E. Curtis, Broad street, New York City.

Have heard nothing since the sixteenth. Are you ill? Am very anxious. Wire. HELEN.

HELEN counted the words. Thirteen! No—no, she would not send a telegram with thirteen words. She was far too superstitious for that. What could she leave out? She crossed out the "am"—that left twelve. If she could get it down to ten, it would be just seventy cents. Again she read it over, and crossed out "have" and "the." It now read:

Heard nothing since sixteenth. Are you ill. Very anxious. Wire.

How could she get this telegram to the office without anyone knowing? By pretending to receive letters from Warren, she had so far kept her family in ignorance of his silence.

She must make some excuse for an errand to Main street. The pattern for Winifred's coat! She again copied the telegram, and then went down on the porch where her mother was sewing.

"Mother, I think I'd better get that pattern for Winifred's coat now, so I can cut it out this afternoon."

"All right, dear. Don't you want to take the buggy? You can get back before your father will need it."

Helen looked out at the gate, before which Topsy was standing.

"But Tom needs a drive. I can manage Topsy. You know I used to drive her."

"Yes, I guess you can. She's gentle enough."

Helen unlatched Topsy, turned her around and drove down the shaded tree-arched street. It had been a long time since she had driven, but Topsy loomed along in the same lazy way.

Forgetting about the pattern Helen drove straight to the telegraph office. "What time will this reach New York?" handing her message to the drowsy looking operator.

He looked up at the clock—it was just ten minutes after one.

"It takes about two hours, delivery and all—but there's that much difference in time between here and there. So, I'd say they'd get it around this time."

"It's seventy cents for ten words— isn't it?" drawing out her purse.

"Yes, ma'm; that's the rate to New York."

As she drove slowly back her mind was filled with torturing doubts. Should she have sent the telegram? Or should she have waited a day or so longer? And yet it seemed that she had reached the limit of her endurance—that she could not go through another day unless in some way she heard from him.

He might have written and the letter mislaid. Oh, if she could only believe that! And yet, she thought of how small a proportion of letters are ever lost.

But, now that the telegram was gone, she began to dread the consequence. Would he be angry? Would he think she was foolish and impatient—and yet it had been ten days since his last note!

"Why, it's Helen Curtis!"

Helen started. A pretty young woman, with two little children, was waving at her from the porch of one of the houses, and now she ran joyfully down to the gate. Helen drew up, Topsy, and leaned out of the buggy to greet her old schoolmate, Edith Morrison.

"I saw by the paper that you and your little girl were here," exclaimed Edith, after the first enthusiasm of their greeting. But I have been spending the week with Harold's mother out at Spring Valley and just got back. I was going to call on you tomorrow. Can't you stop and come in a moment now?"

Helen hesitated. "Oh, DO. I want you to see the children, and Harold's here, too. He's not gone back from dinner yet."

Helen tied Topsy to the hitching post, and they went up the walk to the pretty two-story frame cottage, with its well-kept lawn and flower beds.

"This is my boy, Harold," as a sturdy little chap of five came toward them. "And this is Frances—she's three."

Frances, a doll-faced little girl, was sitting in a big chair nursing a black kitten. They sat on the porch and talked a few moments, and then Edith took Helen through her house. It was a simple unpretentious little home, and yet a REAL home. There was something very sweet and intimate about its atmosphere.

Harold, big and sunburnt and wholesome, came in from the garden where he had been fixing the grape arbor. He greeted Helen most cordially.

"I'm sorry I've got to get back to the store. But you must come over and have supper with us and spend the evening while you're here."

He kissed his wife good-bye, and swinging both children up to his broad shoulders, took them with him as far as the gate.

"You're very happy, aren't you?" Helen asked impulsively.

Edith was stooping over to pick up one of the children's hats. "Happy?" she looked up her face aglow. "I think I'm the happiest woman in the world. And I've the best and dearest husband. Sometimes I wonder what I have done to deserve him."

"Oh, I'm so glad, dear," Helen murmured gently.

Their School Girl Ideal. "Do you remember," Edith went on, as she smoothed the curls of her little boy who had climbed into her lap. "Do you remember, how as girls, we declared we would never marry? We were going to have careers. You were to study music and art. Wasn't that it?" Helen smiled and nodded.

"What foolish ideas girls have," holding closer the little form in her arms. "As though any career would compensate a woman for her man and her child." Oh my dear, there is no happiness in the world like that of a happy wife and mother.

"Yes," Helen repeated wistfully, gazing out at a flowering bush in the yard. "There is no happiness like that of a happy wife and mother."

DUE TO LONG DROUTH

Several Towns in Danger Zone Said to Be Burning.

MANY DEATHS ARE REPORTED

Women and Children Are Sent Southward, While Men Stay Behind to Battle With Hungry Flames That Are Devouring Their Homes—Thousands in Need of Food and Clothing.

Detroit, July 12.—Northern Michigan forests and jackpine plains are burning as the result of the intense heat and drouth of the past few weeks, which has rendered everything as dry as tinder. Several towns are reported destroyed and others are menaced by the flames.

A report says Tröbbridge, a county postoffice of 60 inhabitants, on the Michigan Central railroad in Cheboygan county, was licked up by fierce flames. Flames surround the town of Wolverine and one man, who received word while at his work that his home was afire, found an impenetrable wall of flames when he started for home. He learned before the telephone wires went down that his children had been sent south out of the danger zone.

Messages from Bay City read as follows:

"The city of Alpena, 126 miles north of here, is burning up, and the town of Oscoda, 75 miles north of Bay City, on the Detroit & Mackinac railroad, was entirely destroyed by fire.

"The information from Alpena came when the chief of the Alpena fire department sent the last message received from the north before the wires went down. It read: 'Please send us steamer and hose men, town is burning up.'"

Telephone and telegraph wires are being cut off and women and children are being sent south out of the immediate danger zone on every train. The men in most cases are remaining for a last fight to save their homes.

A third big fire in northern Michigan was reported from Cheboygan, where a veritable mountain of sawdust, the accumulation of 30 years' cutting by several mills, is on fire. It has been burning for a week, but has assumed dangerous proportions. Mayor Woodworth has just received a message from authorities saying that all people of the town can not be removed in time to reach shelter and food and asking him for aid from the citizens of Bay City. Food for 1,500 people is needed, the message said. The message was sent by the Detroit & Mackinac line, who tapped the wires south of Oscoda.

Report Loss of Life.
East Tawas, Mich., July 12.—The first train from the fire-swept town of AuSable brought rumors of the loss of several lives. One hundred survivors were aboard the rescue train. They said several women and children were suffocated by the dense smoke and others lost their lives in the flames.

Body Stops Steamer's Wheel.
Findlay, O., July 12.—The dead body of Della Moore was found in the Blanchard river. It is supposed she committed suicide. The steamer Pastime had stopped to repair its paddlewheel when the body was found in the wheel, stopping the machinery.

Teacher Sent to Jail.
Bellefontaine, O., July 12.—George Pluckett, superintendent of schools at Fletcher, O., has been sentenced to six months' imprisonment in the jail at Troy for contributing to the delinquency of a young girl with whom he went on a joy ride to Sidney.

Walter A. Ryan of New York, fireman of the express.

George Saunders, Norwich, Conn.

Helena B. Walcott, Washington, D. C.

Unidentified woman, about 50 years old.

Unidentified negro passenger, about 30 years old.

Two unidentified men.

One unidentified boy, 3 years old.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 12.—Twelve persons were killed and 50 injured, some of them seriously, when the Federal Express, the crack train of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad between Washington and Boston, went over a steep embankment at the Fairfield avenue cut.

The train was behind time and Engineer Curtis was pushing the 10-wheeled locomotive for all it was worth when the train hit a switch connecting the two eastbound tracks. Engineer Curtis and Fireman Ryan were killed. Among those killed was Mrs. Helena D. Walcott, wife of Charles Walcott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institute.

The only explanation offered by the railroad officials was that the high speed was the cause of perhaps the most frightful accident in the history of that line. It was impossible for them to tell whether the switch gave way under the terrific strain or whether the fast running weakened and loosened an axle or burst a wheel. But they placed the responsibility on the dead engineer for driving the train at 60 miles an hour at a point where the regulations call for a 15-mile rate. No cross-over switch ever built was meant to stand against such a strain. It appeared to be simply a case of an engineer who took a chance in order to keep his day's record clear.

Shake Hands With Themselves.

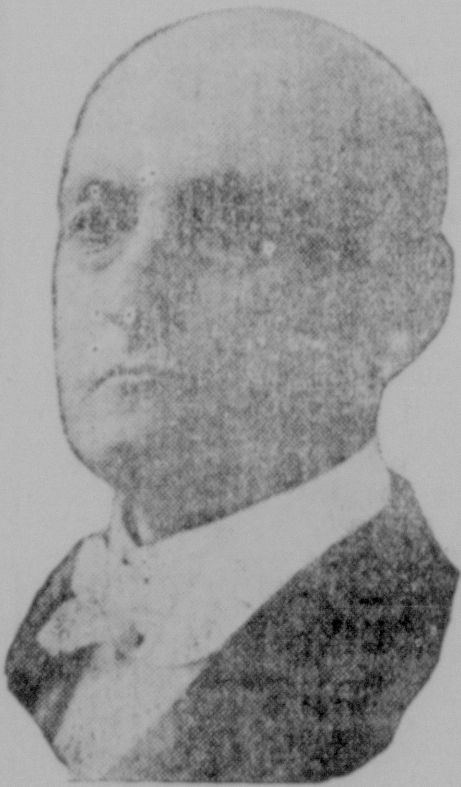

As made up when it left Washington, the train had nine cars—a wooden baggage car, a second baggage car, a wooden day coach and six Pullman sleepers. The two Pullmans at the rear end were occupied by the St. Louis National league baseball team, 22 young athletes under the command of their manager, Roger Bresnahan. Bresnahan and his Cardinals boarded the train at Philadelphia and complained sorely because the trainmen tagged their sleepers to the rear end of the Federal. They protested because they thought it would be hot traveling so far back, but young Mr. Bresnahan, as he stood in pajamas that had been pink but had gotten lanky from dirt and sweat, gave thanks that the railroad people didn't do what he asked. Most of the other ball players were as grimy as their boss, because the whole crew had turned out of their sleeper, which wasn't thrown into the cut, and had worked splendidly helping to get injured passengers out of the dreadful tangle of splinters and twisted iron and broken seats. There were perhaps 200 persons on the train, very many of them women and children who were going north for vacations. The third car behind the locomotive—the day coach—was crowded with passengers who hadn't cared to pay extra for Pullman accommodations and who were napping in their clothes when the train shot off the track. Most of the killed were in that car, for it caught the full shock of the plunge and besides was ground against the stone viaduct by two sleepers. Its sides were pinched together in this crushing vice and few of those in it escaped. The people were pinned in their berths and, although not hurt by wood or metal, were suffocated as they struggled to get free.

Big Konechely, the first baseman of the Cardinals, together with Bliss, the second catcher and Golden, a pitcher, got four people out of one of the wrecked Pullmans.

Massachusetts Congressman
Talks to Ohio Bar Association.

OHIO BAR MEETING

Cedar Point, O., July 12.—It is estimated that not more than 200 of the 750 members of the Ohio Bar association are in attendance at the annual convention, now in session here.

Discussion of the coming constitutional convention is expected to form an important feature of the three days' session. The committee on constitutional convention will report in favor of appointment by the governor, subject to confirmation by the senate of Ohio, of the judges of the supreme court, the number to be increased from six to nine, and this will undoubtedly create hot debate.

The committee will also report against a recommendation designed to prevent delay, technicalities and undue expense of litigation, made by the association at its last meeting.

Both Critically Ill In Europe.

James R. Keene and John W. Gates, both of whom have amassed millions through speculation in the stock market and who have been successful on the turf, are critically ill in Europe, and their friends fear that neither will live to return to this country. Gates is in a hotel in Paris, while Keene is in London after spending several months in a sanitarium in Italy. Keene is seventy-three years old and has been quite feeble for three or four years and has spent much time traveling for his health. The above picture is a snapshot of the two men taken at a race track.

Actor Drowns In Sham Rescue of Maiden In Small Pond.

New York, July 12.—Albert Brighton, 35, an actor, was drowned in a lake in the Fox Hills section of Staten Island. He was in the employ of a moving picture concern and at the time of his death was in the act of rescuing a young lady from the waters of Brady's pond, while the operator on the bank sent the film past the lens with lightning rapidity.

Brighton was a good swimmer, as was the young lady who was precipitated into the waters of the pond when the boat in which she was gathering water lilies capsized. Brighton was walking along the shore and at the cue from the operator plunged into the water and swam towards the struggling girl, who was merely treading water. Suddenly he disappeared from view and after a wait of several minutes the operator signaled the actress to swim ashore and the police were notified. After several hours' dredging the body was recovered.

Prominent Clevelanded Insane.

Cleveland, O., July 12.—Dayton W. Glenn, former state senator and prominent Republican politician, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Bouske and Burns on an insanity warrant. Glenn had barricaded himself in his home, locking doors and windows. The deputies overpowered him after they had gained entrance through a basement window.

Rochester, N. The session was confined to formal reception of the visitors and addresses and responses.

Employed There Under Name of Walter Berry, but Admits That Real Name Is Walter Diehl and That He Was Ringleader in Mob That Stormed Newark Jail on Night of July 8, 1910—Lived in Constant Fear of Apprehension.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 12.—When arrested Walter Berry, who has been employed here several months, confessed to the police that his real name is Walter Diehl and that he was one of the ringleaders of the mob which on July 8, 1910, hanged Carl Etherington, a "dry" detective, to a telegraph pole in Newark, O., and riddled his body with bullets.

Diehl said he was a member of a crowd of men who had been drinking just before the hanging. One of the men, he said, had proposed that Etherington be hanged for having shot a saloon-man. The suggestion, he said, was immediately acted on, and the tragedy for which several men already have paid the penalty was carried out. Diehl said that since the tragedy he had traveled about the country, always in fear of arrest. He said he was ready to go back to Newark to face any charges placed against him. Immediately after Diehl's arrest and confession the authorities in Newark were notified.

Whitlock Refuses to Stand For Indiana Extradition Methods.

Toledo, O., July 12.—Toledo established a precedent for the country and Mayor Brand Whitlock dealt a healthy wallop to a time-honored custom when he ordered returned to Indianapolis two men wanted here for swindling, on the ground that they had been illegally taken from the state of Indiana.

It was all about two men, Louis Raval and Emil Lolleni, who are said to have swindled Abdul Cheney of this city out of $800 several weeks ago, and who were caught trying to do the same thing to a citizen in Indianapolis a few days ago. Detective Cairl of this city went to Indianapolis to get them, armed with a warrant and a requisition from the governor of Ohio. The governor of Indiana granted the requisition and issued warrants, and the men were taken into police court and identified and ordered turned over to Cairl.

Girl Apes Western Bandit.

Akron, O., July 12.—Edna Doble, 13, is under arrest, charged with attempting to hold up the Cuyahoga Falls bank in the most approved western style. She ordered Bookkeeper Gensmer to give her all the money in the vaults, covering him with a revolver at the time. He refused, saying the vaults were locked for the night. The girl backed out of the bank and was quickly arrested.

LIGHTNING-KILLED STEERS TAKEN TO FERTILIZER VATS CONDEMNED BY INSPECTOR

Lightning Bolt Had Torn the Fiber of the Muscles Apart, Leaving Meat in a Condition Unfit for Use as Food—Affair Has Created Great Interest.

PLACED IN STORAGE AS AN EXPERIMENT

The question of whether or not the lightning-killed steers owned by Jesse Cross, were desirable for food purposes, came to an end Tuesday evening when Inspector Wm. Charles Gear, of the State Dairy & Food Department, condemned the carcasses of the five steers which Mr. Cross had placed in cold storage, and they were removed to the Dahl Miller Fertilizer plant Wednesday morning, and consigned to the rendering vat.

Mr. Gear made the second examination of the meat Tuesday, and found that it had soured about the bone, and was otherwise unfit for use. The lightning had apparently torn the fibers of the muscles apart, leaving it in a condition which would cause it to become unfit for use in a few hours' time.

After he had examined the meat and determined that it could not be used for food, he took immediate steps of having it removed to the fertilizer plant, and gave the order necessary for its removal. He then went to the fertilizer plant and saw the meat placed in the room ready to go into the rendering vat.

Mr. Cross was in this city Tuesday, but when asked concerning the storage of the steers, said that he had nothing to say, and had no statement to give out now. He further said that the meat had been placed in cold storage as an experiment.

The affair has created widespread interest, and it is the general opinion that the meat was finally consigned where it belonged.

For the benefit of others who may wish to know the local law on the meat question, Section 17, of Resolution No. 2, passed by the local Board of Health on July 23, 1910, says: "No meat or fish, not being fresh, sound and wholesome, nor any meat or fish that died from disease or accident, shall be brought into the city, offered or held for sale as food, anywhere in the city, nor shall any such articles be kept or stored therein."

The penalty is $100 for the first offense and a more severe fine for each additional offense.

Notable Decrease In Illegal Fishing

"Fewer nets are being used this season to catch fish in the rivers of Ohio than since the Game and Fish Commission was established."

This is the statement of General J. C. Speaks, chief state fish and game warden, who believes the people of the state have become sufficiently interested in the fish laws to assist his department at every opportunity.

"The people won't stand it to have their rivers robbed of fish by those who use nets," said General Speaks. "Fishermen using seines are always caught if they are seen by any one."

A Good Bath For Big Engine

The contractors who are doing the work on the Paint street bridge over Paint creek, just now engaged in building a temporary bridge to be used while the old one is torn down, are having trouble. The trouble came on Monday as the result of a miscalculation on the part of the naval architect who designed the battleship, meant to carry the pile-driver and engine to be used in the work.

A scow was built, presumably large enough to hold all the machinery and on Monday, the workmen proceeded to load a 20-ton engine on it. This was to be followed by the pile driver. The scow proved unequal to the burden and when the 20 tons settled down on it the scow calmly settled down on the bottom in deep water.

The men in charge had a difficult time fishing the heavy engine out of the water. Derricks had to be erected and it was several hours before the engine was hauled on terra firma. A large scow will have to be built before another venture is made.—Chillicothe News Advertiser.

In Social Circles

Miss Katharine Mark entertained with delightful hospitality at the beautiful country home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Mark, near Glendon, Tuesday evening.

The storm coming up just at the hour of the party caused considerable disappointment, the arrangements for a garden party having to be changed to an indoor affair and a number of the guests invited being prevented from attending.

The merry evening included a guessing contest, delicious refreshments and punch served constantly.

Some New Caps For Ohio Guards

The Ohio National Guard will soon be equipped with the light and comfortable olive drab caps to match the new olive drab service uniforms furnished the soldiers by the government some time ago. A requisition for 6000 of these caps was sent to the government by the adjutant general's department, and it is expected that the issue will be received during the coming week.

These will be distributed from the state arsenal just as soon as the requisitions from the company's commander come in. The caps are natty and will complete the color complement of the uniform and leggings.

ESKIMO WIDOWERS.

Six Weeks Is the Limit They Will Wait Before Remarrying.

In civilization it is said that a wife does not always add to her husband's ease or render his life more supportable, but up on the barren grounds the worst of wives would be better than none.

There, among the heathen tribes, if a man's wife dies—provided he is not a polygamist, in which case, says the Wide World, there is less need for hurry—he often marries again within the week.

Even the Christian Eskimo widowers are with difficulty persuaded by the Moravian missionaries to allow six weeks to elapse between the death and remarriage. On the very day after the six weeks have lapsed the hunter presents himself with a new bride and asks that the marriage service may be speedily read.

The reason is not far to seek. It is said in civilization that "a woman's work is never done," and far more is that true of the helpmate of the savage and the semi-savage, the woman of the barren grounds or of the ice edge. She makes and breaks camp, cuts up and carries to camp her husband's kill. She dresses the skins of deer and seal.

She is responsible for the fashioning of footgear and clothes. On a journey she often paddles the canoe, and on portage she carries a heavy load. In fact, it is easier to write down the duties not expected of a squaw than those which by immemorial custom she must perform.

A Turkish Love Story.

A Turk knocked at his beloved's door, and a voice answered from within, "Who is there?"

Then he answered, "It is I."

Then the voice said, "This house will not hold thee and me."

And the door was not opened.

Then went the lover into the desert, where there is nothing but Allah, and fasted and prayed in solitude.

And after a year he returned and knocked again at the door.

And again the voice asked, "Who is there?"

And he said, "It is thyself."

And the door was opened to him.

D'Orsay and His Tailor.

"D'Orsay, the Complete Dandy," as Mr. Tiegmouth Shore calls him in his biography, was fully aware of the value of his patronage to the tailors. When clothes arrived for him, in the most mysterious manner banknotes had found their way into the pockets. Once, when this accident had not happened, D'Orsay bade his valet return the garments with the message that "the lining of the pockets had been forgotten."

HOW TO BECOME INVISIBLE.

A Sample of the Mummy Used in Ancient Witchcraft.

Some curious formulas of ancient witchcraft are given in Mr. A. E. Waite's "Book of Ceremonial Magic." Here is a recipe for becoming invisible:

"Begin this operation on a Wednesday before the sun rises, being furnished with seven black beans. Take next the head of a dead man. Place one of the beans in his mouth, two in his eyes and two in his ears. Then make upon the head the character in the figure which here follows. (omitted.) This done, enter the head with the face toward heaven, and every day before sunrise for the space of nine days water it with excellent brandy."

"On the eighth day you will find the cited spirit, who will say unto you, 'What doest thou? You shall reply: I am watering my plant. He will then say: Give me that bottle; I will water it myself. You will answer by refusing, and he will again ask you, but you will persist in declining until he shall stretch forth his hand and show you the same figure which you have traced upon the head suspended from the tips of his fingers. In this case you may be assured that it is really the spirit of the head, because another might take you unawares, which would bring you evil, and, further, your operation would be unfruitful. When you have given him your vine he will water the head and depart. On the morrow, which is the ninth day, you shall return and shall find your beans ripe. Take them, place one in your mouth and then look at yourself in a glass. If you cannot see yourself it is good. Do the same with the rest or they may be tested in the mouth of a child."

Richard Brinsley Sheridan's Name.

The pick and hammer of the house-breaker are busy now on the old church house at Merton. Few buildings have seen such a whirligig of changes as this. In 300 years or so it has been a farmhouse, a residential mansion, a workhouse infirmary, a French school, a calico stenciling works and a poultry farm. It was once the residence of Richard Brinsley Sheridan, and Nelson is traditionally supposed to have been an honored guest there during his residence in Merton.—Westminster Gazette.

Last Year's Earthquakes.

The Dundee Advertiser in a review of scientific happenings in 1910 says that there were 104 earthquakes recorded by the seismograph at the Royal observatory in Edinburgh. It adds that "the most remarkable shocks recorded were in Iceland, Guiana, Algeria, Zanzibar and Glasgow. These 104 earthquakes under review merit the title large according to observatory statistics. If we are to include both large and small the total earth disturbances for the year are well over 250."

Arrested for Pocketpicking One Man Said to Be Well-known Washingtonian

Misses Hazel and Edith Pfeifer have been spending the past week with relatives in Chillicothe.

Mr. Herbert Bourquin of Cincinnati, is spending his vacation with Ed Pfeifer and family.

Dr. J. F. Dennis returned Wednesday morning from Indiana, where he has been looking after farm interests.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Evans and family, of West Point street, are enjoying a ten days' outing at Russell's Point.

Miss Rose Richwine and Miss Jessie Wain joined a Columbus party today for a week's outing on Buckeye Lake.

Mrs. George B. Franklin left Wednesday afternoon for Atlanta, Ga., after a six weeks' visit with her parents, Capt. and Mrs. George C. Jenkins.

Mrs. Claude Abernathy and little son, James B., of Los Angeles, Cal., and Mrs. M. V. Briggs, of Chillicothe, are the guests of Mrs. Joseph Briggs and family.

Mr. Andrew Dunn, of Cincinnati, is spending the week at Maple Grove. Mrs. Dunn is the guest of her father, Mr. Cornelius Smythe, on Washington avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Tanquary and daughter, Ruth, are attending the Druggists' Convention at Cedar Point and will also visit Cleveland and Niagara Falls before returning.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Barr, of Isola, Miss. Clara Barr and Mr. Harry Barr, of Greenfield, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Haines Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Patton, who are now visiting at the home of Mrs. Patton's parents, Judge and Mrs. Courtwright, in Circleville, before returning to Rochester, N. Y., spent Tuesday with Mr. Patton's mother, Mrs. S. E. Patton.

Washington friends will be glad to learn that Mrs. Ella Courts has decided to leave Russellville, Ky., to again make Washington her home. Mrs. Courts is now visiting her father, Mr. Williams Craig at Shadybrook farm and expects soon to furnish one side of Mr. Craig's East street house and occupy it as a residence.

Miss Mary Campbell arrived from Washington, D. C., stopping at Pittsburgh, Pa., enroute Wednesday morning to visit her brother, Rev. Campbell and sister, Miss Edith. Miss Campbell, who has been holding the position of articulation teacher in the Pennsylvania School for the Deaf at Scranton, Pa., has accepted a similar position in the Western Pennsylvania Institute for the Deaf and Dumb at Edgewood Park, Pittsburgh, for the coming year.

Scarcely having time to congratulate themselves on their freedom from jail at Columbus, two men giving the names of Calvin Rogers and John Jamison were re-arrested for pocket-picking yesterday and taken to Newark after similar charges against them in Columbus had been dismissed in police court.

At the trial at Newark the two men will be represented by Attorney C. D. Saviers of Columbus, who left with them Tuesday after making the defense here. Rogers and Jamison were charged with having stolen $50 from J. Miller, an East Side resident. They were arrested following numerous reports of pockets being picked on Ohio Electric cars July 4.

The news of the arrest of these two men is of particular interest here because of the fact that the man who has now twice been arrested in Franklin county on the same charge—pocketpicking—less than a year ago was in the same kind of trouble at Cincinnati.

He is reported to be a well known Washington man who in the not remote past, made his living here by his ability to handle "the paste boards" when suckers were plentiful and seining for that stripe of victims not under the ban of official displeasure.

The following report represents area, prospect and condition of crops named, as compiled from returns received from official correspondents of the State Agricultural Department:

Wheat—Prospects compared with normal yield, 84 per cent.; damage by joint worm, 5 per cent.; area sown last fall, 2,014,180 acres; original area plowed up, 2 per cent.; estimated area for the harvest, 1,990,727 acres.

Oats—Prospect compared with normal yield, 76 per cent.

Corn—Area in 1910, 3,074,292 acres; area compared with last year, 98 per cent.; Total estimated area for 1911, 2,986,625 acres; condition compared with an average, 89 per cent.; damaged by cut worm, 8 per cent.; damaged by white grub worm, 3 per cent.

Clover—Damaged by white grub worm, 5 per cent.

Potatoes—Area in 1910, 143,431 acres; area compared with last year, 93 per cent.; estimated area for 1911, 130,690 acres; condition compared with an average, 78 per cent.

Timothy—Prospect compared with normal yield, 61 per cent.

Pastures—Condition compared with an average, 75 per cent.

Horses—Condition compared with an average, 95 per cent.

Colts—Number compared with an average, 94 per cent.

Cattle—Condition compared with an average, 94 per cent.

Calves—Number compared with an average, 94 per cent.

Wool—Clipped compared with last year, 94 per cent.

Since the issuance of the June report wheat shows a further decline of 4 per cent., the prospect being now estimated at 84 per cent. The report shows that the crop has suffered a damage of 5 per cent. by joint worm. There are also many complaints of damage by Hessian Fly. Of the original area seeded, 2 per cent. was plowed up in the spring. It is now estimated that 1,990,727 acres will be harvested. This should produce approximately 25,083,160 bushels.

Oats shows the same prospect as reported one month ago—76 per cent. This crop has suffered severely by the long continued drought. The harvest will be short from fifteen to twenty million bushels in comparison with the production of last year.

The area planted to corn is estimated at 2,986,625 acres. This is a decline of 2 per cent. in comparison with 1910 area. The crop generally is very uneven. Its growth was retarded by drought. Recent rainfalls have been very beneficial. Its present growing condition is estimated at 89 per cent. Cut and grub worms have damaged corn to the extent of 11 per cent. One year ago the growing condition of plant was estimated at 83 per cent.

Area planted to potatoes is estimated at 130,690 acres. Growing condition 78 per cent. On corresponding date one year ago growing condition was estimated at 93 per cent.

Pastures are in very poor condition, due to severe draught.

Timothy prospects estimated at 61 per cent.

Blackberry Season Is Now On Open $2.25 Bushel

The blackberry season has opened up and the berries are now selling in the local markets at $2.25 per bushel and are first class berries.

Reports from the hill counties, which have long been famous for the quality and quantity of their berries, are to the effect that the crop this year is an immense one, and that the berries will be as big, black, juicy and sweet as ever.

Parties from this city and county have made arrangements to drive down into the hills and secure wagon loads of berries for themselves and neighbors. The price for the berries in the field just after they are picked runs from 75c to $1.25 per bushel.

Real D. A. R. Dies Tuesday

Mrs. Hannah Vanderford, who celebrated her ninety-sixth birthday anniversary at her home in Zaleski, Vinton county, Sunday, died Tuesday. HEALTH AND FOOD.

A Doctor's Idea of a Perfectly Balanced All Year Round Diet.

That every one is more or less susceptible to tubercular trouble is a matter on which all old fashioned medical authorities are agreed. They tell us that we may pass through a phase and out again without knowing it. According to Dr. T. Y. Hull in the Dietetic Gazette, there is only one thing very certain, and that is that if we keep in good health or adapt ourselves to a perfectly balanced diet the danger is slight.

He advocates a reduction of vegetable food, relying more upon butter, meat and nuts. Here, of course, one has to face the increased danger of tubercular meat, itself probably a large contributory cause of consumption.

This is Dr. Hull's idea of a perfectly balanced diet, calculated to keep the average individual in perfect health all the year round: The basis for the diet is found in meat, eggs, milk, butter, bread, potatoes and fruit. It consists daily of two quarts of milk, five eggs, four ounces of beef, one and one-half ounces of butter, two ounces of nuts (pecan), four ounces of bread, three and one-half ounces of rice, three ounces each of potatoes, peas and oatmeal, one ounce sugar, one ounce raisins, one apple and one orange.

Abrupt.
Judge Stevens had a slight hesitation in his speech, but that affliction did not prevent his using long words. One morning his dog Snip got into a fight with another dog. Tapping him with his cane, Judge Stevens exclaimed, "D-d-dis-con-t-i-tin-ue."—Success Magazine.

Her Recommendation.

A woman prominent as a social worker was in the city to engage a new girl the other day. She visited an employment agency which makes a specialty of finding places for country housemaids and was much pleased with one from the country.

"Why did you leave your last place?" asked the woman.

"I didn't have no last place," answered the girl, "because I ain't had no last place to leave, and I'm still working at it, being for myself that I've been working, and I'm sure I'm a good servant, and I can recommend myself to you, ma'am." Exchange.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. Fletcher

A clergyman who had neglected all knowledge of nautical affairs was asked to deliver an address before an audience of sailors. He was discoursing on the stormy passages of life. Thinking he could make his remarks more pertinent to his hearers by metaphorically using sea expressions, he said:

"Now, friends, you know that when you are at sea in a storm the thing you do is anchor."

A half concealed snicker spread over the room, and the clergyman knew that he had made a mistake.

After the services one of his listeners came to him and said, "Mr. —, have you ever been at sea?"

HOME NO. 137—TELEPHONES—HELL, MAIN NO. 170

THE MIDDLE CLASSES.

Rev. John Timothy Stone, of Chicago, announces that "the great danger which faces the home life of today is that children have things too easy, because their parents do too much for them."

This statement is perhaps true and unfortunately it may be supplemented by another statement of fact that another and a larger numbered class of children do not have the benefit of proper home training because their parents are too poor to afford them advantages.

When we add to the class mentioned by Professor Stone—the children whose parents are too rich to bother with them and permit them to live a life of idleness simply because such a course is easier for the pleasure loving parents—that other large class of children who are, from early childhood, compelled to work and drudge at manual labor for their very existence because their parents are too poor to afford them any other life, we have a grand total which includes by far the larger part of the children of the country.

This leaves only the children of the great middle classes whose parents can and do still under present conditions, afford them wholesome advantages. To this class the hope for the future is pinned. The great men and women of this and every other country, as a rule with few exceptions, come from the great middle classes.

That is true now and it has been true in the past, and it promises to be true in the future so far as we can now see into the future.

Professor Stone has announced no great discovery after all. His statement amounts to nothing more than that the future promises to be like the past.

The great, prosperous middle classes have made the history of all nations, they are the back bone of the present progress and promises to continue so in the future.

Ill fares the land which permits conditions to arise which sweeps away that great middle class and makes either princes or paupers of all its people.

IN MEXICO.

All sorts of dire disasters which have been so freely predicted by the pessimists ever since Diaz finally concluded to yield to the demands of his friends and abdicate his rule in Mexico, now bid fair to be proven real, genuine, timely hints.

If a country ever was in turmoil and confusion of all kinds involving both home and foreign relations, poor old Mexico is that country and right now—the present—is the time.

Supposedly wise and thoroughly ambitious statesman of the Reyes, De La Barra type evince no disposition to make a fight for the presidency of the deranged republic. All seem to be willing to stand back and allow the patriot Madero to take hold in these troublous times, resting secure in the belief that the present troubles will shortly culminate and result in the undoing of whoever takes the helm at this time.

Were the Mexican people a different tempered people these wise men might be fooled, but being possessed of the characteristics which make for trouble it is not likely that the intensely patriotic and peace loving Madero will be able to bring order out of the present chaos.

Mexico needs a Diaz to hold the unruly elements in check and until a higher degree of civilization is established and maintained, until the Mexican populace learns to hold itself in check for its own good it is not likely that the republican form of government can endure in aught except name in Mexico.

The present reports of rioting, of famine, of business derangement in the land to the south of us seem not to be overdrawn, and many there are who confidently believe that the realization of Madero's dream is not yet at hand, and that developments of the next few months will prove conclusively that such is the case.

Mexican people seem to require a government in which they exercise no important function.

Correct
Many Errors of Teacher
and PupilBy DR. HAROLD J. STEERE
Chicago

The high school boy who cheats is dishonest and no amount of argument can make him otherwise.

The lesson should be systematically taught and explanations clearly given.

There seems to be much "go as you please" instead of a stated curriculum for each year.

Home work should be given advisedly instead of no home work one day and enough to keep the child up till twelve o'clock at night on another.

When a pupil does anything wrong, whether intentionally or otherwise, he should be punished in accordance. To give a zero and thus rob a child of his right average because he was guilty of some slight misdemeanor is unfair and is the cause of great discouragement. It disheartens and ruins the school life of many pupils.

Systematic reviews should precede all examinations.

The public schools as a whole are well conducted and good, and what is wanted is a thoughtful correction of errors of both teacher and pupil and not the rabid abuse to which so-called reformers so often resort.

POETRY

"GIVE THEM A PLACE TO PLAY."

Plenty of room for dives and dens,
(Glitter and glare and sin)
Plenty of room for prison pens,
(Gather the criminals in!)
Plenty of room for jails and courts,
(Willing enough to pay;)
But never a place for the lads to race
No, never a place to play!

Plenty of room for shops and stores,
(Mammon must have the best!)
Plenty of room for the running sores
That rot in the city's breast!
Plenty of room for the lures that lead
The hearts of our youth astray,
But never a cent on a playground spent,
No, never a place to play!

Plenty of room for schools and halls,
Plenty of room for art;
Plenty of room for teas and balls,
Platform and stage and mart.
Proud is the city—she finds a place
For many a fad today,
But she's more than blind if she fails
to find
A place for the boys to play!

Give them a chance for innocent sport,
Give them a chance for fun—
Better a playground plot than a court
And a jail when the harm is done!
Give them a chance—if you stint
them now,
Tomorrow you'll have to pay
A larger bill for a darker ill,
So give them a chance to play!

of Education.

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

Seasickness.

People who travel by sea are more interested about prevention for seasickness before sailing than they are about remedies when the attack is on. When a sea goes is very sick the victim doesn't care what happens. Nevertheless all who go to sea are interested in prevention and cures. Everybody who has been seasick has a suggestion. Red glasses have been advised. A sheet of writing paper worn over the pit of the stomach is another simple method employed by some. Constant nibbling at salty food, such as salt codfish, is recommended by many. But undoubtedly there are some who will not derive the least benefit from any or all of these. No definite reason has been discovered why some persons are immune from the nausea occasioned by the motion of the boat on the waves when others suffer intensely even though the water is little more than rippled on the surface.

Big Circus Tent
Upset by Tornado
Animals Thrown in Panic

Bellefontaine, O., July 12.—The John Robinson circus tents were leveled to the ground when a tornado visited this city. The performance had closed and thousands of spectators had just vacated the big tent when the poles swayed in the rush of wind and then crashed to the earth together with a sea of canvas. The menagerie tent soon followed, and the roars of the wild beasts were punctuated by the trumpeting of the frightened elephants. Keepers risked their lives endeavoring to quiet the panic-stricken animals.

The city electric light plant was put out of commission and several houses were struck by lightning. The entire county felt the force of the storm and the crops have suffered untold damage.

Shortage
Of $20,000

Cincinnati, O., July 12.—Confirmation was obtained of a report that alleged discrepancies estimated to be from $15,000 to $20,000 exist in the accounts of the Home for Incurables of Cincinnati. A well known club woman is treasurer of the institution. She is under the care of physicians, who state that she is too ill to be questioned on business affairs. John Welde Peck, attorney for the home, said that he did not think any one had embezzled or intended to embezzle a single penny.

Nation Without Saloons
Is Endeavorers Plan
New Era Before 1920

Atlantic City, July 12.—By the adoption of a resolution condemning the liquor traffic as the "curse of the republic," the International Christian Endeavor convention adopted as its slogan, "A saloonless nation before the Fourth of July, 1920."

The 7,000 persons in attendance cheered when Dr. Francis Clark declared the resolution to be a "new declaration of independence."

Every man, woman and child in the big throng pledged themselves to prosecute the fight.

Former Vice President Fairbanks, in his address before the convention, declared: "If Taft succeeds in winning his fight for universal peace he will win with it a place among the foremost statesmen of the world. It will be a crowning glory to his achievements."

DOINGS IN OHIO

Bonding Company Surrenders.

Columbus, O., July 12.—Using the state treasurer's office as a club, Attorney General Hogan has recovered $25,000 of the $75,000 the state had on deposit in the Farmers' and Merchants' National bank of Cleveland at the time of its failure in 1908, and expects to get the remainder in the same way. The money was paid over by the Massachusetts Surety and Bonding company Hogan requested State Treasurer Creamer not to accept this company as surety for state funds, and when one was turned down the other day the company got busy.

Will Drop Arbitration.

Columbus, O., July 12.—Secretary D. H. Sullivan of the state board of arbitration went to Cleveland today to make a personal investigation of the garment workers' strike. He said he believed arbitrator could be brought about. Ex-Secretary Bishop made two fruitless trips to Cleveland. He found the employers in the early stage of the strike would not listen to suggestion of arbitrating the dispute.

Caldwell Girl Missing.

Zanesville, O., July 12.—Flossie Price, 16, left her home in Caldwell Sunday morning to attend church. Since that time nothing has been seen or heard of her and relatives believe that she has met foul play.

Strike Quickly Ended.

Lisbon, O., July 12.—Eight girl finishers employed by the Arter Pad and Harness company, who struck because their wages were reduced 10 per cent on account of the operation of the Green law, which cut their workday from 10 to 9 hours, have won their cause. "We convinced Mr. Arter, who has always been kind to us, that we are doing as much work in nine hours as we formerly did in 10," said Miss Olive Carnes, 18, leader of the strikers.

Hogan Sues Trustees.

Columbus, O., July 12.—Timothy D. Hogan, attorney general of Ohio, filed three suits here to force the construction of Cleveland's long delayed art museum, and to demand an accounting from the trustees under the three art museum funds of the money they have handled. Why Hogan filed the suit was a mystery until City Solicitor Baker admitted that it was he who complained of the procrastination of the trustees.

But For Turner's Error Would Have Shut Out Washington

Cleveland, O., July 12.—Falkenberg held Washington to five scattered hits, and the Naps took the first game, 2 to 1. But for an error of Turner's the Naps would have scored a shutout. Pitcher Hughes of Washington was hit on the pitching arm in the sixth inning by a vicious drive from Stovall's bat and had to retire. The exact extent of the injury is not known, but he will probably be out of the game for some time. Graney starred in the field and at bat, scoring both of the runs, and cutting off possible scores by marvelous catches. Score:

Identifies Suicide as Murderer.

Akron, O., July 12.—A man who committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart with a revolver in front of the home of Dr. J. R. Fisher was later identified by Fisher as Antonio Verrachia, the man who murdered his wife on North Hill Tuesday morning.

What is the difference between Noah's ark and the ark which the children of Israel had in the wilderness of sin?

Answer—You have probably heard of the preacher who said to his congregation: "I can bring myself to believe that Noah built an ark, in which he and the wild animals were sheltered during the flood, but when it comes to making me believe that the children of Israel toted that ark around on their shoulders in the wilderness for forty years, that's too much for me to swallow." Evidently he thought there was no difference in the two arks.

Noah's ark was a large boat or vessel, larger than any now made. The ark which the children of Israel had in the wilderness was a rectangular box made of wood overlaid with gold, the lid or cover which was made of pure gold. The approximate size of this ark was 4 feet long, 3 feet broad and 3 feet high, a detailed description of it being given in Exodus xxv, 10-22. Inside the ark were kept the golden bowl of manna, Aaron's rod that budded, and the two tables of the Law (See Hebrews ix, 4). The ark, together with all other furnishings of the Tabernacle in the wilderness, was a shadow or picture of good things to come. (See Hebrews viii, 5; x, 1; Colossians ii, 17.)

Got a Perfectly Good Camera That You Don't Use Any More?

One of the ways in which want ads can be useful to you is in selling, for fair prices in cash, any "second-hand" articles you own. They must be good, of course—and priced so that the buyers secure bargains. You can sell any article of furniture, any piece of machinery—anything that still has usefulness for the man who has use for it—through want advertising

When Butte Was A Barren Desert.

For five weeks last winter the city of Butte, Mont., was a barren desert. It was the driest place on earth. The water supply was all right, but owing to a strike all the newspapers were suspended.

Butte's experience proved that in this day and age the local newspaper is a public necessity. Nobody knew what was happening. False rumors spread like bad butter. Fake stories about citizens circulated by word of mouth until several duels almost resulted. There were no newspapers to tell the truth about things.

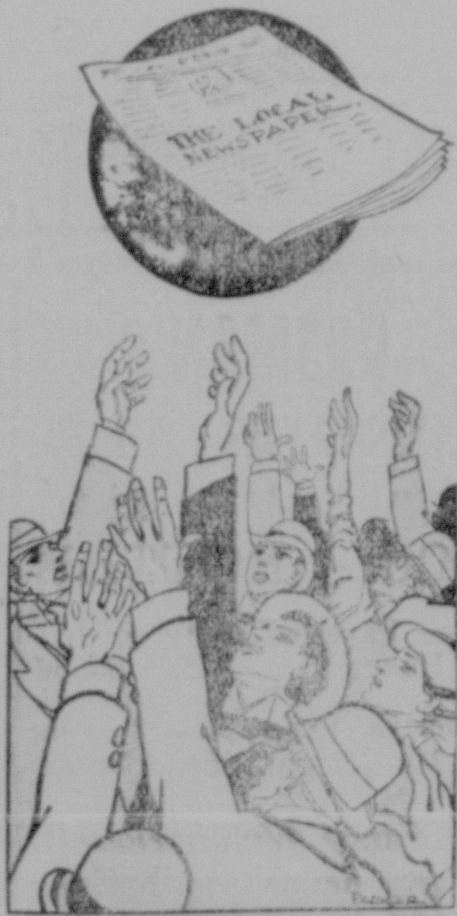

Business suffered worst of all. Merchants tried handbills, which didn't fill the bill. They worked the billboard overtime, but only bored the public. The people cried for newspapers as babies cry for—(See ad.)

For once in the history of the world it was demonstrated beyond peradventure that a town without a live newspaper is a dead one. Stores could not do business without properly advertising their wares, and they could not advertise properly without newspaper space.

Butte merchants are now advertising to make up for lost time. Business men who didn't think much of advertising before have learned its value and are using newspaper space.

The experience of Butte carries a lesson for every other town—this one, for instance:

ADVERTISING PAYS ITS OWN WAY.

CURRENT VERSE

A Daughter of Dixie.

Her eyes are soft with dreams of love,
And dark as some lagoon,
In which, through woven branches, shine
The glory of the moon.
Her silver voice is sweet and low,
Her brow is broad and meek,
And pure as waxen orange flowers
The oval of her cheek.

Her dusky tresses thick and fine,
In many a silken fold,
Are bound about her shapely head
And filleted with gold,
Her lips are like the dewy rose
That finds a resting place
Upon her heart, in filmy frills
Of organdie and lace.

A knight of old who crossed the sea
With nothing but his lance,
Bequeathed to her that regal air,
That dark and tender glance,
Oh, daughter of the sunny South,
Where summer never dies,
The North, that never feared your guns,
Surrenders to your eyes!

—Leslie's Weekly.

I Shall Be Satisfied.

I shall be satisfied, if, when
My labors on the earth are done,
And I am called to God again,
Behind me I have left not one
Who harbors bitter thoughts of me
And mutters that I wronged him here;
If I can face Death fearlessly,
And face him with a conscience clear.

I shall be satisfied to die
If I can only leave behind
A few on earth to testify.
That I was honest, patient, kind,
And though I leave no hoard of gold,
And pass, but little known, from here
I'll face Death's angel, staunch and bold,
If I can keep my conscience clear.

I have no wish to rise to fame,
I have no wish to clamber high
And have the world applaud my name;
That will not help me when I die.
I'm satisfied to plod along
And do my best, year after year,
To face the fight, however strong,
But still to keep my conscience clear.

For a Child.

His mind has neither need nor powers to know
The foolish things that men call right and wrong;
For him the streams of pleasant love-wine flow,
For him the mystic sleep compelling none.
Through love he rules his love-made universe,
And sees with sight by ignorance made keen,
The fauns and elves whom older eyes disperse,
Great Pan, and all the fairies with their queen.
Kind gods, I pray, bestow on him this dole,
Not wisdom, wealth, nor mighty deeds to do,
But let him keep his happy pagan soul,
The poet vision, simple, free, and true,
To hunt the rainbow gold and phantom lights,
And meet with dryads on the wooded heights.

Icarus; Now, as Then.

He soared as surely as an eagle does,
Higher and higher toward the zenith still;
And as he rose a chant came back to us,
An iron monotone of human will.
Made audible. When listening was vain,
Breathless we followed him with straining eyes,
Adventurer who claimed as man's domain,
Amazed and impotent, the conquered skies.
"The Prince of Air is tamed! What hinders men?"
We cried, "from traversing that upper world
In quest of unimaginable things!"
From awful silence came the answer then,
As like a challenge at our feet was hurled
Our champion dead, with broken, silent wings.
—Anella Johnson Burr in the Century Magazine.

A Maiden.

Oh, if I were the velvet rose
Upon the red rose vine,
I'd climb to touch his window
And make his casement fine.
And if I were the little bird
That twitters on the tree,
All day I'd sing my love for him
Till he should harken me.
But since I am a maiden
I go with downcast eyes,
And he will never hear the songs
That he has turned to sighs.
And since I am a maiden
My love will never know
That I could kiss him with a mouth
More red than roses blow.
—Sara Teasdale in Lippincott's Magazine.

Neglected Love.

He caught a glimpse of love one day,
But resolutely turned away;
"Not yet," he said, "for love's sweet sake,
For I must first my fortune make."

The days to months, the months to years,
Kept record of his hopes and fears;
With one set purpose, still in view,
Fair Fortune he did fondly woo.
At last, his hair all silvered o'er,
He felt he needed something more,
And sought love in the old, old way,
And sought in vain from day to day.

For love is coy, and love is kind,
But those who earnestly would find,
Must seek her, all things else apart,
Love loves an undivided heart.

The Hungry Heart.

Give me new love, ye golden hours,
To charm dull care away!
I care not for those withered flowers—
The loves of yesterday.

Give me the new light in the eye,
The lips I have not kissed,
The eager word, the new-born sigh—
The old shall not be missed!

I'll gather me rosebuds while I may,
For Spring is on the hills!
And if she takes the rose away
I'll gather daffodils!

Old wine, old friends—I approve—
Old books, old songs, old art!
But give me this day my daily love,
For mine is a hungry heart.

The Object of Work.

Loving! What claim to love has work of mine?
Concede my life were emptied of its gains
To furnish forth and fill work's strict confine
Who works so for the world's sake—he complains
With cause when hate, not love, rewards his pains.
I looked beyond the world for truth and beauty!
Bought, found and did my duty.

Browning.

DOCTORING A DIAMOND.

Trick That Makes a Yellow Stone Appear Clear Blue White.

Let me show you a little trick that I would advise you not to put into practice, said a jewel fancier to a number of friends the other day.

The conversation had turned to diamonds during the midday luncheon, and the expert had been holding forth on his favorite subject. The little group of St. Louisans were interested still more when the speaker drew a big solitaire from his finger and beckoned a waiter across the cafe.

"Bring me a glass of water and an indelible pencil," said he when the servitor came over to the table.

"This is a trick that is essentially crooked," said the jewel fancier, "and will get by nine times out of ten even when the examiner is an expert at judging precious stones and detecting trickery. It will make a yellow 'off color' diamond look like a stone of the very first water. Pawnbrokers innumerable have been fooled by this same trick, as it is extremely difficult to detect even with a powerful glass."

The expert took the pencil and allowed the indelible lead to dissolve in the glass of water. In a couple of minutes the water was as blue as indigo water.

"Now watch," said the man who knew the lore of jewels.

He took the ring and dropped it into the glass. Its brilliancy was dimmed by the hazy, bluish water until it looked like a dead stone.

"Now, you noted," said the demonstrator, "that the diamond I placed in there was a bit yellow. It will be a clear bluish white when it comes out of its bath."

At the end of a minute the stone was taken out. The top of the gem was dried with a soft handkerchief and then the ring was waved to and fro for a few moments. It was held up for inspection. Not a gleam of yellow was to be seen. The stone was apparently a magnificent blue white gem that any one would be proud to own and loathe to pledge.

"It is the blue pigment deposited on the back of the stone that has made the difference," said the jewel expert. "The deposit is so slimy that a strong glass cannot detect it. You cannot see it from the rear of the mounting and only a bath of alcohol will remove it. It will stay on the gem for weeks if it is not removed in that way. It used to be a favorite trick of many folks who now and again had to put a diamond into the hands of a pawnbroker."

"The trick is called 'doctoring a stone,' but, as I said in the beginning, I would not advise you to try it. I don't know what the law on such matters is in Missouri, but there are states where a person convicted of such an offense would serve a long penitentiary term for his cleverness."—St. Louis Republic.

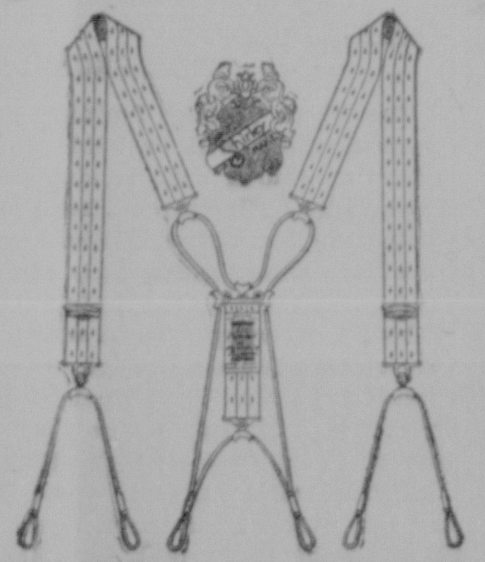

Where the Danger Lay.

"I understand you had a narrow escape at the seashore last summer?"
"Yes; I rescued a woman from drowning."
"Come near marrying you, eh?"
"No; she was married."
"Then where does the narrow escape come in?"
"She had a son-in-law."—Houston Post.

Turbulent Storm Clouds Cause Much Uneasiness Among Nervous Citizens

The boiling, restless, ugly storm cloud which swept down upon this city from the northeast Tuesday evening just before dark, was closely watched by hundreds in this city, and a great deal of restlessness was apparent as the seething, roaring clouds flew over the city, bringing great clouds of dust and waves of hot and cold air, which are indicators of cyclonic conditions.

Beyond a severe wind a small amount of rain the clouds passed harmlessly overhead, to the evident relief of everyone. The clouds were the worst appearing of the season.

Murder Committed In Self-defense

Pickaway township, Pickaway county was the scene of a tragedy late Monday afternoon when Samuel Famulener, a land owner, was stabbed to death by Robert Hinton, a tenant, when he attacked Hinton.

A few days previous to the fatal encounter, the two men had come to blows during an altercation, and Hinton thrashed his antagonist, but did not injure him to any extent. Famulener vowed he would "get even" and Monday afternoon attacked Hinton without warning, and Hinton used his pocket knife, stabbing his antagonist under the right arm and severing an artery. Famulener died within a hour.

After Ten Years Passed Xenia Man Is Arrested For Murder of Southerner

Edward Long, familiarly known as "Pink Long," who for the past ten years had been living in Xenia in seeming security from the stern hand of the law, was arrested Friday and Friday evening was taken to Yanceville, Caswell county, North Carolina, where he will have to answer to a charge of first degree murder. The crime was committed ten years ago and Long fled to Xenia. He was tracked there by the officers at that time, but they failed to bring requisition papers to have the man taken back for trial. The matter was then dropped and for several years Long has been an employe of the Pennsylvania railroad and has been faithful and trustworthy in his duties. When Sheriff F. N. Fitch was elected to his office as sheriff of Caswell county, he found the old case against Long and in company with Deputy G. A. Walker came to Xenia with requisition papers to take Long back to answer to the charge. It seems that in a quarrel during a gambling game Long had shot and killed his companion, Clem Settle, another negro.

Long is 35 years of age and has a wife living in Xenia.

BIRTHDAY DINNER.

An event of the utmost pleasure occurred at the country home of Mr. Abram Colaw, Sunday, when children and friends gathered to remind him of his 65th birthday.

The guests, numbering 48, came from Eber, Milledgeville, Plymouth, Bowersville and Washington, bringing with them well filled baskets, containing all kinds of good things for the picnic dinner.

Mr. Colaw was the recipient of a number of useful and much appreciated presents.

The guests departed expressing their enjoyment of the delightful day and wishing the genial host many more happy birthdays.

Besides relatives Mr. and Mrs. Fultz, son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Todhunter and daughter, were present.

Emblematic Block Placed in Position

The immense stone bearing the three links and the words "Odd Fellows Temple" was placed into position six feet above the third story window on the Odd Fellows' temple Tuesday. This interesting piece of work was watched by quite a crowd as the stone was slowly hoisted through the air by the big derrick. It was thirty minutes from the time it left the ground until it was resting securely on the wall far about the street.

When the stone arrived it was found that the design was not exactly right, and that the lettering was not large enough. Stone cutters were put to work on the block and the letters were enlarged, and the letters "F. L. T." inserted in the three links, making the block appear to better advantage.

Barn Destroyed By Lightning Bolt

Last night, between eight and nine o'clock, during the severe electrical storm which raged in the Northwestern section of the county, lightning struck the barn of Mrs. R. A. Chitty and in the fire which followed the barn and all contents were entirely consumed.

The mow was filled with new hay and besides there was quite a quantity of grain and some few implements in the barn. Fortunately no live stock was held in the barn at the time of the fire.

Loss on barn and contents is estimated at about $1000.00, only partially insured.

NEW KIND OF OUTLAWRY FOR THIS QUIET SECTION BREAKS OUT IN GREENE COUNTY

According to the Xenia Daily Gazette a new brand of outlawry for this section has made its appearance over in Greene county.

The Gazette says:

"Cattle thieves began operations in this county Monday night, when they visited the farm of Fred Bryant, near Clifton, and stole four fine cattle, a six year old Jersey cow and three yearling steers, two black and one red. The animals were taken from pasture, and were driven past the house to the road. From Clifton they went toward Cedarville, and were seen passing through that village, about 3 o'clock in the morning. There appeared to be two men in the party, one on foot and one in a buggy.

When the theft of the cattle was discovered early Tuesday morning, the authorities of all the surrounding towns were notified. Knowing that the thieves were some place in the vicinity of Cedarville, Wiley Kennon, the marshal of that village, telephoned to Dayton for blood hounds, which were brought over by Ora Harrison, and put on the trail at Clifton. They followed the trail to Cedarville, and from there toward Jamestown. At 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, the thieves were still at large, the work of the dogs having proved fruitless.

Marshal Zeiner, of Jamestown, arrested Gus Franks, of near that place, on suspicion of knowing something about the theft, but he was later discharged.

Mr. Bryant who was in Xenia Tuesday afternoon announced a reward of $50 for the arrest and conviction of the thieves."

Amusement Company Survives Storm

The heavy wind storm of last evening played havoc with some of the tents of the Weider Amusement Co., pitched on the old Fair grounds. A few were blown down, allowing the rain to saturate tents and goods considerably, but no serious damage was done. After the storm passed over men soon placed everything in order, and the bright morning sun found the amusement grounds looking very inviting. The Red Men, under whose auspices the Carnival is being held, expect a banner attendance tonight.

Harpers Station Well Being Drilled Deeper

The drill is being sent deeper in the oil well at Harper's Station in Ross county, and drilling will not be discontinued until the drill passes through the present strata of rock in which the flow of oil was struck.

If a greater flow of oil or gas is not encountered the well will be plugged below the spot where the oil was found, and the hole will then be shot and thoroughly tested out.

No new wells have been started, and the companies having territory under lease will await the shooting and further development of the well now being sunk to a greater depth by the Herod's Creek Gas and Oil Company.

The Tourists Enjoying Trip

A telegram was received this morning from Col. B. H. Millikan, of the Dahl-Millikan Grocery Co., who is personally conducting the Dahl-Millikan outing, announcing the arrival of the party at the Thousand Islands.

The telegram reports splendid connection, reaching every place on schedule time. Everybody is well and excellently located, and the weather fine, cool and bracing.

Letters and post-cards from the fortunate tourists give more in detail the same news and the trip seems to be more than fulfilling early anticipations.

Havoc Wrought By Bee Swarm

David McBroy, a young farmer residing on the Jackson road near Clifton, over in Greene county, was attacked by a swarm of bees while working with the hive. Trying to fight the insects off he ran into a corn field near by where he fainted from pain and for some time lay exposed to a heavy rain storm which broke soon afterward, his plight not being discovered until several hours had passed. Dr. Messenger, of Xenia was called and gave medical attention, finding the man terribly stung about the head and face and all exposed parts of the body. It is thought that the injuries will not prove serious.

A Wedding Ring Superstition.
Although there was a lifelong friendship to back up their business deals, the jeweler was not surprised when his old customer who had married a second time bought the wedding ring at another shop.

"If he should take a third wife he would buy the ring at still another store," the jeweler said. "That is one of the superstitions of the trade. A man may have the marrying habit ever so bad and require several wedding rings in his time, yet he never buys any two of them from the same place. Jewelers do not expect it. They don't want to sell two wedding rings to the same man. Bad luck would surely light on all concerned, and there is enough trouble in the world anyhow without deliberately inviting more of it by defying a good old wedding ring superstition."—New York Times.

FOLLIES OF SCIENCE.
Seven Problems That Have So Far Baffled Man's Mighty Brain.

The history of science has seven problems that men in all ages more or less have tried to solve, but which have finally been given up by all. Today they are called follies.

The usual list comprises the following: First, squaring the circle; second, duplication of the cube; third, trisection of an angle; fourth, perpetual motion; fifth, transmutation of metals; sixth, fixation of mercury; seventh, elixir of life. Some lists put the philosopher's stone for the last three and then add astrology and magic to make the seven.

To the unlearned it would seem possible to draw a square which shall be exactly equal in area to a given circle, which is the first problem in the list, but we are told by the highest authorities that it is impossible.

Since the discovery of radium it is claimed that the change of one metal into another has been accomplished, but it is yet too early to dogmatize about the matter.—Chicago Journal.

Learn to Think on Your Feet.
It does not matter whether one wants to be a public speaker or not, a person should have such complete control of himself, should be so self-reliant and self-poised, that he can get up in any audience, no matter how large or formidable, and express his thoughts clearly and distinctly. In all ages oratory has been regarded as the highest expression of human achievement. Young people, no matter what they intend to be, whether blacksmith or farmer, merchant or physician, should make it a study. Nothing else will call out what is in a man more quickly and more effectively than the constant effort to do his best in speaking before an audience. When one undertakes to think on one's feet and speak extemporaneously before the public the power and the skill of the entire man are put to the severest test.—Success Magazine.

Melodramatic.
A dramatist was condemning two melodramas that had had an unmerited success among the less cultivated portion of the public.

"The first," said the dramatist in his epigrammatic way, "was all blood and thunder, and the other was all mud and blunder."

Champion The Fighting Rev. Caldwell 1776 Drama

Some startling incidents in the life of the Rev. James Caldwell, the fighting parson of New Jersey, the hero of the Battle of Springfield, have been rescued for the first time from the oblivion of a century and a half, and are here presented by the Champion players with an adherence to historical verity and correctness of detail that is truly wonderful.

Corpse Rings.

The sailor of the old fashioned, shellback class always wears a corpse ring. This is a plain band of silver or gold inscribed within with the sailor's name and port. Corpse rings are worn for the purpose of identification in case of death by drowning through shipwreck etc. The shellback sailor can never swim, and he looks forward calmly to dying suddenly beneath the sea. Indeed, he usually prefers such a death to a lingering one in hospital.—Buffalo Express.

The yoke skirt is one of the most becoming of styles, and just at present it is one of the most popular as well. Our illustration shows one of these skirts with the round yoke extended at each side in a square tab and on one side the skirt is fastened with buttons and buttonholes. The lower part of the skirt is a deep kilt plaiting extending all around. This skirt is one which will be rich in any material, and it is especially suited to satin, taffetas, linen, pongee, foulard, voile, cheviot, panama and other light weight woollens as well as to many of the wash materials with good body.

The pattern (5143) is cut in sizes 22 to 30 inches, waist measure. Medium size requires 8 3/4 yards of 44 inch material.

To procure this pattern send in cents to "Pattern Department," of this paper. Write name and address plainly, and be sure to give size and number of pattern.

Stovall Has Made Good.

The work of First Baseman George Stovall as acting manager of the Cleveland club has proved so satisfactory that President Somers has announced that he sees no reason for making any change and has no intention of looking elsewhere for a manager. Since Stovall became leader of the club, succeeding McGuire, the team has won most of its games. It is said perfect harmony prevails among the players.

Ball Team to Tour Japan.

The far west and the middle west appear to contain the only big universities ambitious regarding foreign baseball tours. Announcement comes from the University of California that there is a possibility of that university sending a baseball team to Japan. The Californians are to make the trip at the invitation of Waseda and Keio universities. The trip, however, will not be made until 1912. Although no definite announcement has been made that the team will be sent to Japan, the project leaked out. The athletic authorities at California wished to keep the matter one of secrecy until definite action was taken and the trip made a certainty. It is said on the coast, however, that the trip is a surety.

DEFINITIONS OF LIFE.

The following definitions of life have been obtained with considerable difficulty:

A man of merit:
"Life is an interval of effort seldom rewarded with success."

The Profit in It.

"I see that your trust is compelled to disband?" "Yes," replied Mr. Dust-in Stax. "You seem very cheerful about it." "Of course. Our enterprise has never yet been readjusted without enabling some of us to take down a very comfortable profit."

Made Him Punctual.

Mme. Durand used to wait for her husband at a street corner, but he kept her waiting such a long time every day that she tried giving him a rendezvous in a big dry goods store, and now it is astonishing how punctual he is. — Pele Mele.

A Prodigal.

Hobbs—The money young Milyun's father left him won't last long.
Slobbs—Why, is he such a spender?

THE CIRCULATION DEPARTMENT

of THE HERALD is now at work redistricting the city to facilitate the distribution of the paper each evening. Under the new plan all carriers in the outlying districts will proceed at once to their territories, instead of serving portions of the up-town district, as at present.

The change has been made imperative by the Rapid Increase in The Circulation of The Herald Which Now Covers The Whole City Like a Blanket

It means that additional carrier routes will be established, and that all subscribers will get their papers earlier in the future, for the reason that subscribers will not be obliged to wait while the overloaded carriers drag over large districts.

The change will lighten the loads of the boys and give almost simultaneous distribution.

Some few days will elapse before the entire plan can be put into effect and the carriers learn their new routes, but in a short time everything will be working smoothly.

If you are not now a subscriber to the DAILY HERALD telephone your order in and you will be promptly served.

"Madam, may I ask you to remove your hatpin?"

"Sir, you are rude!"

"Doubtless, madam, doubtless; but the discomfort of standing in a swaying car with your hatpin through the rim of my ear must be my excuse. Perhaps my ear is too large, anyhow."

Not to His Taste.

"I ain't felt at home in this beeh elevator, sence day painted it w'ite inside," announced the elevator boy, glancing disapprovingly at the enamelled sides of the tiny compartment. "Looks to me mo' like a coffin or a sody foun'in dan a elevator."

MANY HUNDREDS PERISH IN BIG FIRE

Ontario Swept By Fierce Blaze.

THREE TOWNS BURNED

People Leave Devastated District In Trainloads.

MICHIGAN LOSS EXAGGERATED

Only Three Known to Be Dead, But Scores Are Missing and Believed to Have Burned to Death—Maine Town Destroyed and Valuable Timber Burned.

Toronto, Ont., July 13.—Forest fires that are sweeping unchecked through northern Ontario have claimed between 300 and 400 lives, many have been injured, scores are missing, and it is feared most of these will be included in the fatalities.

Thirty lost their lives at Porcupine, including Captain White and his family at West Dome. Fifteen men were drowned at South Porcupine when they were driven into the lake by the dense clouds of smoke. Two were burned to death at El Dorado mine and another met a similar fate at the United Porcupine mine. Three towns have been wiped off the map. Hundreds of refugees are facing starvation.

A train containing 600 women and children was rushed out of Cochrane as the wall of flames advanced toward the village. The town of 2,500 inhabitants was soon a mass of fire, and is entirely destroyed. South Porcupine and Pittsville are charred ruins.

Two special trains have been sent to bring the 4,000 souls who are facing starvation or death by fire in the Tisdale district.

The flames swept down on the towns without warning. The alarm sent the people rushing for the lake, but they were forced to abandon everything. The town of Kelso was abandoned.

NO RAIN IN SIGHT

Michigan's Fire Death Rate Very Much Exaggerated.

Detroit, July 13.—With three people known dead, scores missing who may have perished, two towns wiped off the map and nearly a dozen others reported either destroyed or greatly damaged, Michigan is facing the worst forest fire situation the state has ever seen.

Northwest winds, said to be the worst possible for a situation of the kind, are blowing down over the burned and burning districts of the northern portion of the lower peninsula, spreading fire in almost every direction. There is no rain in sight, and the weather men say that a long dry and hot spell is all the state can expect for several days. Without rain there is certain to be a greater loss of property than at present, and the figures reported so far will undoubtedly reach $5,000,000.

FIRES RAGE IN MAINE

Wipes Out Village and Sweeps Path Through Forest.

Portland, Me., July 13.—The little village of South Waterford, 2½ miles from this city, was swept by flames and in three hours wiped out of existence. Thirty dwellings and nine other buildings were destroyed and 100 persons made homeless. The loss to date is estimated at $300,000.

After completing its work of devastation in the village the fire raced through the woods and has swept a path four miles through valuable timber land, leaving also the ruins of three isolated farmhouses in its trail. The fire is still uncontrolled, although a bucket and shovel brigade of 300 farmers are fighting it, aided by engines from Portland and Rochester, N. H., with crews of trained firefighters.

OHIO RAILROADS WEAR LONG FACE BEFORE COMMISSION

Enormous Increase in Valuation of Railroads.

FOUR HAVE VALUATIONS RAISED

Judge Ditty Talks Straight From the Shoulder and Tells Taxing Agents of Hocking Valley and Norfolk & Western That Some Roads in Ohio Will This Year Be Assessed Ten Times More Than They Have Been in the Past.

Columbus, O., July 13.—It was announced by the state tax commission that the tax valuation of the Hocking Valley road for 1911 has been fixed tentatively at $40,650,000. Last year the road paid taxes on $7,427,000. A tentative value of $25,000,000 has been placed on the Norfolk & Western. Last year the road was assessed on only $7,000,000.

The Kanawha & Michigan has been placed tentatively at $5,390,000 and the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton at $6,109,300. Former valuations of these roads were $1,096,085 and $1,599,915, respectively.

Tax agents of both the Hocking Valley and the Norfolk & Western were given hearings before the tax commission. They all insisted that Ohio was trying to put its railroads out of business; that other states were not valuing railroad property at more than one-third or one-half of the Ohio valuation, and that many of the roads wouldn't be able to bear up under the increased tax burdens.

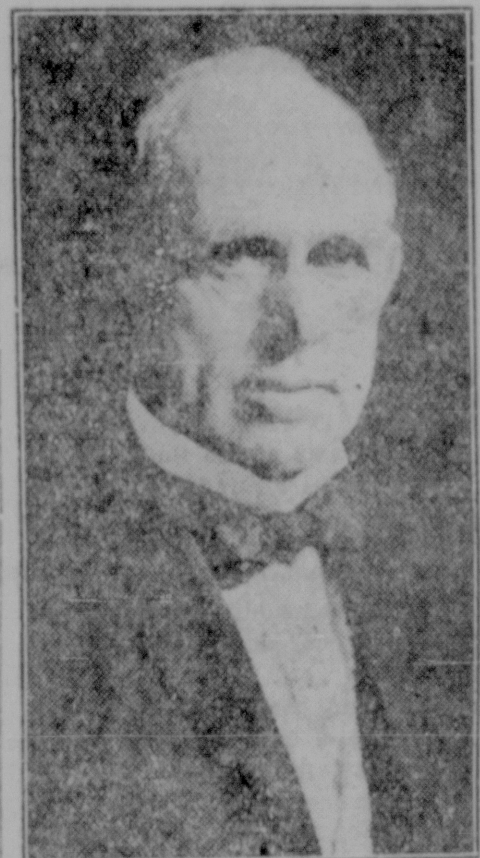

Judge Ditty, chairman of the commission, after listening to this sort of argument, said: "There are some railroads in Ohio that will be assessed for taxation this year at 10 times more than they have been assessed in the past.

"We are valuing them as going concerns; that is, what they would actually sell for on the market. Home owners have to pay taxes on every cent their properties are worth, and the railroads in Ohio will have to do the same thing," Ditty concluded.

JUDGE DITTY

Has a Few Words to Say to Railroads on Taxation.

Centenary of Thackeray's Birth Celebrated on July 18.

William Makepeace Thackeray was born July 18, 1811, and the one hundredth anniversary of his birth will be appropriately celebrated in various parts of the English speaking world. An exhibition of Thackeray relics will be opened at Charterhouse, where the great master had his schooling. This opening will be attended by Lord Rosebery and by Lady Ritchie, the novelist's daughter. Thackeray came to the United States twice, in 1852 and in 1855, remaining nearly six months each time and lecturing and reading, from his works in various cities. The picture above is from a painting by Alonzo Chappel. The small drawing is a caricature of "W. M. T. on His Travels" by the author.

ATWOOD WILL DESCEND AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

President Taft will Shake the Hand of the Intrepid Aviator.

GOLD MEDAL TO BE PRESENTED

Descend Will Be Made From Height of 1,000 Feet in Wright Machine.

Washington, July 13. — President Taft tomorrow afternoon will step from his office onto the White House lawn and shake hands with Harry N. Atwood, who will have spiraled down from a thousand feet up in the heavens in his Wright-Burgess machine to pay a call upon the president. Atwood will come over from College Park, which is about nine miles out of the city, and will circle the dome of the capitol, daily awhile around the top of the Washington monument, and then make a straight-away descent for the White House lawn.

An excellent program has been arranged for the aviator. He discussed it when he called at the White House to meet President Taft. The local chamber of commerce has set a medal-maker at work in a hurry to turn out a gold medal for the young aviator, and this will be presented to him by the president.

Harmon Over-looked In Bryan's Slate

Bryan Busy Making Up Slate, Over-looks Governor Harmon.

Lincoln, Neb., July 13.—Expressly declaring that he is not prepared to decide for himself the question of relative availability of Democrats for the presidential nomination, Mr. Bryan in a Commoner editorial lists those whom he deems fitted for the honor. The name of Governor Harmon of Ohio is conspicuously absent. No one, he says, questions the availability of Folk, Wilson or Clark, and he adds a long list of eligibles.

He then suggests these tickets: Governor Smith of Georgia and Governor Duff of North Dakota; Marshall of Indiana and Dix of New York; or Dix and Marshall; Senator Culberson of Texas and Senator O'Gorman of New York; Shafroth of Colorado and Foss of Massachusetts; James of Kentucky and Osborne of Wyoming; James and Brandeis of Massachusetts; Judge Clark of North Carolina and Senator Pomerene of Ohio.

Lays Roof in Sleep.

Wooster, O., July 13.—John C. Hoover, a tinner at Reedsburg, while in a state of somnambulism went onto the roof of a bank barn and laid three long strips of tin in good shape. He awoke when going down the ladder after more tin.

Death Follows Accident.

Coshocton, O., July 13.—Harry Bender died at the Keenan hospital. He was injured several days ago by being thrown from his motorcycle. He was unconscious from the time the accident occurred until death relieved him.

DIPLOMATS PAY. KALEN DELVES INTO THE RECORDS

Finds Diplomats have Always Been Underpaid.

URGES INCREASE IN SALARIES

Representative Henry, Who Started Argument by Speech on "Dollar Diplomacy," Replies That Necessity Does Not Exist For American Extravagance In European Capitals and Intimates That Hill's Recall Was to Make Way For Hammond.

Washington, July 13.—Representative Kahn of California, a Republican, in answering the recent speech of Representative Henry of Texas, a Democrat, on "Dollar Diplomacy," entertained the house with the results of his researches in the files of the state department. In order to demonstrate that times have not changed and that if it is true, as Representative Henry charges, that American diplomatic representatives at foreign courts seek to bask in the sunshine of kingly smiles, it was even more true in the days of old Mr. Kahn read a number of communications received at the state department a century or more ago.

Silas Dean, Mr. Kahn said, wrote home from France to the Continental congress, requesting that some products of the colonies be forwarded to him to be given to Queen Marie Antoinette to secure her royal influence.

Representative Kahn remarked that Mr. Henry had decried the fact that men of large means are invariably selected to fill responsible diplomatic posts abroad. "From the very outset," said Mr. Kahn, "the pay to our representatives abroad has been entirely inadequate, and at every period of our country's history the men who have represented us on diplomatic missions have been compelled to use their private means in order to maintain the dignity of their positions and to uphold the honor of their country. Thus Thomas Jefferson, when minister to France, wrote to the Continental congress and to his own personal friends that it was impossible for him to live on his salary. He suggested a more liberal appropriation.

Quotes Adams.

"It goes without saying," added Mr. Kahn, "that if our representatives abroad are to accept courtesies they are compelled to return courtesies. John Quincy Adams, probably the most experienced of all our diplomats, wrote to the state department in 1815 that the annual salary of an American minister is insufficient to support a man with a family—I say not in the style of high official rank, but in the decency becoming a private gentleman."

Replying to Mr. Kahn, Mr. Henry declared that extravagant and unreasonable standards had been set up in the conduct of the American ministries in foreign countries, and declared there was no excuse for the useless expenditures supposed to be necessary on the part of incumbents of those positions.

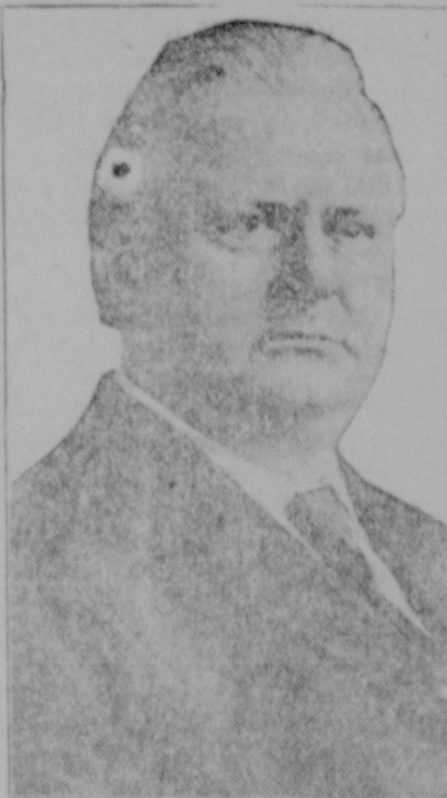

Continuing, Mr. Henry said: "Ambassador Reid's vice regal state in London is not typical of the American government." Mr. Henry said he "would rather this government should never send another representative to Berlin than to take orders from the German government as to what is to be sin quo non of a diplomat there."

Representative Henry added that David Jayne Hill had been withdrawn from Berlin in order to make room for John Hays Hammond. Mr. Henry referred to the published report that Mr. Hammond had "nudged the king" (King George of England) in order to attract his attention, and refer to the success of the coronation. "If we send Mr. Hammond abroad to another coronation," said Mr. Henry, amid laughter, "I suppose he will nudge the queen."

Straining At a Gnat Stops Work On Big Sewer Same Old Question Again

Simmered Down to its Last Analysis the Cause of the Tie Up of Work on the Market Street Sewer Seems to Be Over the Clerical Work of Preparing Necessary Ordinance.

Council is Willing to Pass the Needed Legislation, so Numbers Say—But Dis-claims Any Duty in Regard to Preparation of Ordinance.

HOT SHOTS FLY THICK

Worse and more of it! An attempt was made today by THE HERALD to secure a little more light on the Market street sewer, or, as it has been dubbed "the Panama Canal", which remains untouched and with no glowing prospects for further advancement. The fact is that right now it looks as if the sewer question would be settled, and at the same time, renewed, by filling up the trench in Market street where the sewer was uncovered.

THE HERALD went to Service Director Anders and tried to get a statement as to whether he would fill up the ditch, leave it alone, or proceed with the work. Mr. Anders was of the opinion that a visit to Mayor Allen would be more fruitful. Mayor Allen was non-committal, but in return suggested that Service Director Anders would probably be able to make a statement to better advantage than himself.

Another visit to Service Director Anders resulted in a suggestion that the Committee on the Market street sewer muddle be asked what they were going to do, what they knew, etc. THE HERALD representative endeavored to get Service Director Anders to say that he would fill up the sewer, commencing upon a certain date, or would take some other action, as the public is demanding that something be done.

A visit was made to a member of the Committee, who said that if he was the Service Director he would fill up the trench and let it go. He also advised that a visit be made to City Solicitor Rankin, saying that it all hinged upon the City Solicitor, and that inasmuch as he was the city's legal adviser, he should be able to suggest some way out of the dilemma.

Mr. Rankin was next visited, informed that he was wanted to talk for publication, and said he knew little about the matter, as council had never asked him for advice on the question of how to proceed.

He further stated that he had "been informed that $1.50 was all that could be paid" for the labor. He pointed out Section 227, of the Ohio Municipal Code, which states that all officers, clerks and employees in any department of the city government shall have their salaries or compensation fixed.

Mr. Rankin also said that it was council's duty to fix all salaries and that only the amount fixed by council can be paid. Section 126 of the Ohio Municipal Code was also pointed out. The first clause in this section reads: "Council shall fix the salaries of all officers, clerks and employees in the city government." He held that this meant that the salary of men employed on sewers, etc., must be fixed. Whether these men come under the clause of "in the city government" is a question upon which issue may be taken. Mr. Rankin made a search for a ruling on a similar case but did not find it.

City Auditor Glenn M. Pine secured an opinion from the State Bureau of Public Accounting at Columbus, last week, and was advised not to allow any warrants or salaries paid unless compensation had been fixed by council.

"If the Director of Public Service cannot proceed with the work," said a member of the Market Street Sewer Committee, "we can get a man who will carry out the work. The money for doing the work has been appropriated, and it is not necessary to hold the men down to $1.50 per day. Heretofore when it was deemed necessary by the Service Department, wages running as high as $2.25 have been paid, and if the Service Director proceeds in like manner there will be no kick coming."

Various members of council have expressed a willingness to pass a resolution or ordinance fixing pay of the men if such resolution or ordinance is presented.

Councilman Rothrock when asked for his version of the tie-up stated that so far as he was concerned he was now and had been all along, willing to vote for the passage of the necessary ordinance fixing the compensation of a stated number of "expert workmen" for the big ditch at $2.00 per day, and that he believed all the members of council felt just as he did about the matter.

Mr. Rothrock stated that prior to his last council meeting he had expressed that view to Mayor Allen.

He did not believe, he said, that it was council's duty to prepare the ordinance, but that council stood ready and willing to pass the necessary ordinance at any time it was presented in proper form.

At the earnest request of the Y. M. C. A. committee members and other interested citizens a request was made Thursday morning to convene council in extra session to take the necessary steps to relieve the situation.

Mayor Allen states that it is certainly not his duty to prepare council's ordinances and that that very question was threshed over early in the year on the semi-annual appropriation ordinance. His duty, the Mayor says, is to inform council, by message of the conditions and the need of legislation and it is then council's duty to enact the needed legislation.

Washington people have not forgotten the tie up over the semi-annual appropriation ordinance, nor the outcome of that petty bickering. The present condition of affairs in regard to the Market street sewer, when all simmered down seems to be nothing more than a duplicate of that other memorable tie up.

An extra meeting of council will probably be held tonight at which the vexed problem may be threshed out.

Mayor Allen states that this morning Mr. George Jackson, of the Y. M. C. A. committee, called upon him and told him that Councilman Rothrock had said to him that if the solicitor would present such an ordinance as was necessary, it would be passed. The Mayor says that Mr. Rothrock in open council meeting asserted that council had nothing to do with fixing the compensation of the men working in the ditch; that it was up to the Service Director to fix the compensation. He says that he went to the office of Mr. Rankin, however, and asked that official to prepare an ordinance such as was necessary. He was informed by Mr. Rankin that council had not made known its desires to him and he would be unable to prepare an ordinance not being advised of what was desired.

Later Councilman Rothrock informed THE HERALD that Clerk of Council Flynn had informed him that Mr. Pope Gregg had told him that council need take no action in the premises, that it was up to the Service Director to fix pay of men.

So there we have it all, as near as it can be gotten.

Somebody is evidently badly mixed and council seems to be divided on two reasons for not passing any ordinance, one is that no ordinance has been presented, and the other is that no action on its part is required.

In the meantime nothing is done. Either Solicitor Rankin is wrong when he says council must act or Prosecutor Gregg is in error when he says council need take no action at all.

Mr. Gregg's position, however, comes to THE HERALD second-hand, it having been quoted by Clerk Flynn to Councilman Rothrock, while Mr. Rankin's opinion comes direct.

Salary Loan Co.'s Declare New Law Is Discriminatory

Attacking the constitutionality of the Haas salary loan bill, passed by the last legislature, F. F. Cain, a stockholder in the People's Salary Loan Company of Columbus, entered suit in the common pleas court Tuesday morning, to enjoin that company from complying with the terms of the new law.

The law as passed May 31, by the legislature, provides that each person, firm or company who loans money on personal property, excepting banks and building and loan companies, shall file with the secretary of state, a bond in the sum of $2000 and pay a license fee.

The law is attacked by Gumble & Gumble, attorneys for the loan company stockholders, upon the ground that it violates the constitution in that by excluding banks and building and loan companies it discriminates against all others and is not of uniform operation.

The stockholder declares that the payment of the fee and filing the bond the firm would dissipate its funds. Judge Marcus G. Evans, of the Franklin county Common Pleas court granted a temporary restraining order, and will hear the case later on its merits.

Too Much Booze Tucked Under Belt

Maryland Dowler, a young man of this city, was placed under arrest on the carnival grounds Wednesday night in a state of intoxication, and was locked up in the county jail until the mists had rolled away and he could see without beholding two objects where there should be only one.

Dowler had been up before on a more serious charge, and when placed under arrest by Chief Devaney said: "Let me go, chief, you have had me up once." Today he was arraigned before Mayor Allen and given the customary dose of $5 and costs.

Only One Bid On Street Bonds

The $14,591.18 street improvement bonds were sold Wednesday to the Commercial bank, at par and accrued interest, there being no other bids.

The bonds run for an average of 2½ years, and are for the improvements on Delaware, Forest, Gregg, Temple and Sycamore streets, which are still under course of improvement.

It is said that this is the first instance in the history of the city where bonds were disposed of before the improvements were finished.

Well Known Minister Killed By Train

John Anderson Dickerson, 63, a well known minister in this section of Ohio, and who has many friends in this and adjoining counties, was struck by a B. & O. fast train in Athens and instantly killed the first of this week.

The aged minister was walking near the track and stepped upon a pebble, which turned under his foot, throwing him directly in front of the approaching train which struck him. Death followed instantly.

For several years he has lived in Vinton county, but previous to that had various charges throughout this part of Ohio. At one time he sold sewing machines through Fayette and adjoining counties.

Ohio Methodists Plan New Home For Children

An organization has been effected looking towards the establishment this fall of a $50,000 children's home under the auspices of the five conferences of the Methodist Episcopal church in Ohio. Already $25,000 has been secured for the building and a 100-acre Van Wert county farm has been offered to which older children probably will be sent.

Among the prime movers in the project are Dr. John C. Arbuckle and Dr. Herbert Scott, of Columbus, Dr. J. H. Ritzwater, Prof. R. T. Stevenson and Mrs. Della L. Williams, of Delaware, Dr. F. I. Johnson of Mt. Vernon, N. W. Stroup of Cleveland, and Rev. H. C. Jameson of Cincinnati. The Methodists of Ohio, while supporting two hospitals and an aged people's home, have no children's home, and prominent men and women of the church think the time is ripe for such an institution. The home probably will be located in Delaware, although a definite site has not been chosen.

C. H. & D. Railroad Repairs Crossings

With a little urging the matter of repairing the bad crossings on South Fayette and South North streets, was taken up by the C. H. & D. railroad, and those fearfully run-down places have received long-needed attention, several loads of gravel being used for the work, and filling up the deep ruts on each side of the rails.

Automobilists persist in running out on the sidewalk in making the crossings, and if the practice is not discontinued the police will be compelled to arrest those using the sidewalks instead of crossing in the streets.

A number of persons have barely escaped serious injury at the hands of autoists who have driven upon the sidewalk rather than run over the rough crossing, or the newly placed gravel.

Chillicothe Baby Drinks Fly Poison

The nine-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Sullivan, of East Fourth street, narrowly escaped death from poisoning by drinking Daisy fly killer on Tuesday afternoon and only prompt measures on the part of the physicians in attendance prevented the poison from having greater effect than it did.

The child was playing upon the floor, and in some manner got hold of one of the small receptacles containing Daisy fly killer. He began sucking it, and when Mrs. Sullivan discovered the little fellow, he had apparently swallowed enough of the poison to make his condition dangerous. Drs. Meggenhofen and Brown were summoned, and emetics were used to remove the poison from the baby's stomach and the stomach washed out.

The child became very sick from the poison, but is much improved today.

Straining For a Throne.
Each department of France has its royalist, nominated by the Duc d'Orleans, who is in close touch with the chief of his party's headquarters in Paris, the Comte de Laregle. The latter has under his orders a press bureau, known as the correspondence nationale, from which all the French royalist papers take their cue. Yet another division of the royalist bureau politique in Paris is the so called Librarie Nationale, which furthers the monarchist cause by circulating hundreds of thousands of pictures, fly leaves and popular pamphlets. Finally there is a service of special messengers, answering to the king's messengers of the English foreign office. To these men is entrusted the duty of conveying the commands and instructions of the pretender from his home at Wood Norton to the royalist leaders in France. Owing to the activity of the cabinet noir of the French postoffice, a detective service which makes no secret of examining all royalist correspondence, it is impossible to confide any letters of importance to the mail—Munsey's Magazine.

Mineral Wool Clothing.
Now Thomas A. Edison is telling us that one day we shall find clothing "dirt cheap" for the reason that the sources of mineral wool are inexhaustible and processes are under way by which it will be robbed of its "scratchiness," be spun, woven, dyed and turned into the naggiest kind of garments. Mineral wool or mineral cotton is produced by turning a jet of steam through liquid slag from a furnace. Under the influence of the steam the hot slag is blown into fine white threads. Until Mr. Edison mentioned its coming adaptability for clothing mineral wool has been valuable as a nonconductor of heat and as such has been used as a covering for boilers and steam and hot water pipes. Which suggests that a mineral all wool overcoat may be all right in a hard winter, while an undershirt of even mineral cotton might be uncomfortably warm in August. Chicago Tribune.

Attorney Hughay Jennings.
Hughay Jennings came out of a coal mine without much education or much of anything else. He saw in baseball a chance for something better, and he worked both on and off the field to improve himself and his people. After he got through playing ball because his arm wore out he coached Cornell, studying law at the same time and eventually graduating. When he is not leading his team and tearing up grass on the base lines he is the head of the firm of Jennings & Jennings, attorneys, at Scranton, Pa., near where he crawled out of an anthracite mine to become leader of two great baseball clubs. He is quite a skillful lawyer, and they say when he sticks up one leg, doubles his fists and yells "E-yah!" at a jury the opposing attorney quits. —Hugh Fullerton in American Magazine.

APPRECIATION AND GROWTH.

Confident in the belief that the reading public of Washington will be charitable enough to overlook the seeming egotism of it, THE HERALD desires to call attention directly to the matter contained in the announcement of change in the carrier routes published in the issue of Tuesday and the issue of Wednesday.

Every statement made in that announcement is absolutely correct and susceptible of positive and incontrovertible proof.

As the end of the first business year approaches, it is not out of place to state that, without any attempt to cultivate a hot house circulation, relying simply and solely on the success of honest efforts to give the people of Washington an up to the minute newspaper, the circulation of THE HERALD has steadily increased until now it has reached a total which is one hundred per cent. larger than it was one year ago.

This enormous increase in patronage has necessitated revolutionary changes in the system of distribution and in making these changes the circulation department has been for some time past and is now busily engaged.

It is not reasonable to suppose that twice the number of papers that were formerly sent out of the office can be distributed among THE HERALD readers with that degree of promptness which gives satisfaction unless the facilities of distribution are increased in proportion to the increase in circulation. An up-to-date afternoon paper, in these days, cannot go to press immediately after dinner and carry the late news and THE HERALD publication hour is delayed just as long as possible in order to carry the latest news.

The fact that a later publication hour has been fixed upon coupled with an increase of one hundred percent. in circulation has rendered imperative a change in the system of distribution as the only possible solution of the trouble and annoyance to subscribers caused by late delivery.

No expense and no labor has been spared to provide Washington readers with just as good a paper as the field will permit and to provide Washington merchants with an advertising medium which cannot be surpassed in the city or county.

When the changes now under way are completed THE HERALD hopes that present difficulties will have been surmounted and subscribers given a paper fresh from the presses with the least possible delay.

The appreciation shown by Washington people of the efforts of all connected with THE HERALD to make the paper all that could be expected, are fully appreciated. The management will continue to keep pace with all reasonable demands.

Running a daily newspaper is no rest cure and a substantial exhibition of appreciation by the public for the efforts of those who push the load up hill is always kindly received.

THE HERALD proposes to demonstrate that it appreciates that appreciation by increasing facilities to meet an increased demand for papers each evening.

VACATIONS AND EXERCISE.

A vacation period produces dividend paying results almost immediately. After eleven months constant grind at business, no matter what kind it is, a man grows stale. He loses the vital nerve force, the energy and the enthusiasm which makes any business go. The same rule holds good among professional men and the constant pounding day in and day out at the vexing problems which tax the brain for solution makes the mental machinery dull and sluggish.

Almost coincident with the arrival of the knowledge that rest is as essential as work and relaxation from the every day grind must come if the long sought success is to be overtaken, has come the knowledge that exercise is as essential to the office worker as is the vacation period. Healthful exercise does not mean physical work to the extent of over exertion. It does not mean that the man who exercises must weary himself or make a task of what should be a pleasure. When exercise becomes a task it ceases to benefit and becomes a menace instead of an aid to good health.

Times have changed a great deal in this respect, even in the last decade. The time is not yet far in the past when the golf playing merchant or professional man was frowned upon. To do anything except tend strictly to business was regarded as a form of idling which boded ill for success.

In these days the man who makes a slave driver of himself and has his own body for the victim, is looked upon as foolhardy—as a man who is doomed to sure and swift destruction, as a man who will become too insufferably narrow to even comprehend his own business, in its entirety.

It is now regarded as absolutely essential, even viewed from the standpoint of business that a man must mingle with his fellow men and must keep in touch with other businesses to succeed.

Men realize now as they never did before that they cannot make slaves of themselves or of their employes without suffering the consequences and suffering in a dollars and cents way, too.

Whether the radical change has been wrought by a desire for better physical condition or as a business proposition or by both combined does not matter so much. The fact is that the styles have changed.

POETRY

WHEN IT IS HOT.

Consider Mr. Shadrach,
Of fiery furnace fame;
He didn't bleat about the heat
Or fuss about the flame.
He didn't stew or worry,
And get his nerves in kinks,
Nor fill his skin with limes and gin
And other "cooling drinks."

Consider Mr. Meshach,
Who felt the furnace, too;
He let it sizz, nor queried, "Is
It hot enough for you?"
He didn't mop his forehead
And hunt a shady spot;
Nor did he say, "Gee! what a day!
Believe me, it's some hot."

Consider, too, Abed-ne-go,
Who shared his comrades' plight;
He didn't shake his coat and make Himself a holy sight.
He didn't wear suspenders
Without a coat and vest;
Nor did he scowl and snort and howl,
And make himself a pest.

Consider, friends, this trio—
How little fuss they made.
They didn't curse when it was worse
Than ninety in the shade.
They moved about serenely
Within the furnace bright,
And soon forgot that it was hot,
With "no relief in sight."
—Chicago Tribune.

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

Care of the Eyes.

Although one of the most delicate portions of the body, very often the eyes are the hardest worked and least taken care of; therefore a little advice may be appropriate.

- Don't rub your eyes when you first get up in the morning.
- Don't read or write on a moving train.
- Don't read with your head lowered.
- Don't squint.
- Don't read in a dim or shifting light.
- Don't try to enlarge the eyes by using belladonna.
- Don't forget that your eyes need a playtime every few hours.
- Don't read facing the light.
- Don't mind wearing glasses if your eyes require them.

Bailey's Amendment Defeated

Washington, July 13.—Senator Bailey's free list amendment to the Canadian reciprocity bill was defeated in the senate by a large majority. So evident was the margin against it that Senator Bailey did not ask for a rollcall.

Welsh People Turn Out to Witness Tail-end of Coronation.

Carmarvon, Wales, July 13.—One of the most interesting events ensuing on the coronation took place today, the investiture of the young Prince of Wales amid quaint Welsh surroundings and at the very birthplace of the first English Prince of Wales, Edward son of King Edward I and Queen Eleanor. After the ceremony the prince was shown to the nation, or as many as could get near enough to see him from what is known as Queen Eleanor's gateway.

No Relief From Heat
Death List Still Grows

Philadelphia, July 13.—While the officials at the weather bureau were announcing that the heat wave was broken, and cooler weather had arrived, a man who could not stand the heat any longer went to Fairmont park and blew his head off. The number of deaths resulting from heat were more numerous than on any day since the beginning of the hot spell, reaching a total of 32, while there were 92 prostrations.

Humidity Kills Gothamites.
New York, July 13.—Despite the fact that there was a drop of 10 degrees in the temperature over the two preceding days, the increased humidity caused 36 deaths and over 100 prostrations. This was only exceeded once since the beginning of the hot wave, when on July 6 the deaths from heat numbered 40.

Quack Under Arrest.
Mingo, O., July 13.—Hillard Jones, a colored voodoo medicine quack, is under arrest here, charged with the death of Agnes Reynolds, 15. The girl took medicine given her by Jones and died in agony a few hours later. The man had no license and was warned to cease practicing.

Shriners Select Los Angeles.
Rochester, N. Y., July 13.—Los Angeles was selected as the place for the convention of the Shriners next year. John Frank Treat of El Zampale, Fargo, N. D., was elected imperial potentate.

Q.—What is Life?

Answer.—To live is to possess sentient being; to be capable of consciousness, joy or sorrow, pleasure or pain. Life, in its highest sense, is known as immortality. Immortality signifies inherent life, a life not sustained by outside supplies, conditions or influences, but life possessed in one's self. Life possessed in this sense belonged originally to God alone; but it has been given by the Father to the Lord Jesus Christ; and He promises this life to His faithful Church, His Bride, His companions in Kingdom glory. However, life in an inferior sense is the possession of the angels through the grace of the Creator, who is pleased that they shall enjoy it everlastingly in harmony with His will. Eternal life is proffered to mankind in general; it will be granted to so many of Adam's race as shall ultimately, under the blessings of the Messianic Kingdom, be recovered completely from the imperfections of sin and death, and who shall maintain that perfection by continued obedience to the Divine requirements. All who sin after receiving full light, shall not live.

Willis Is Hot Member

Washington, July 13.—The inviolable dignity of the house chamber went down to defeat before the heat. The torridity set up spontaneous combustion of a box of matches in the pocket of Representative Willis of Ohio and resulted in a near panic on the floor. A dozen members jumped for him and while the Ohioan, who is 6 feet 4 inches tall and weighs 225 pounds, tried to climb out of his burning coat, they endeavored to beat out the fire. Willis wasn't hurt.

ESCAPED WITH HIS LIFE.

"Twenty-one years ago I faced an awful death," writes H. B. Martin, Port Harrelson, S. C. "Doctors said I had consumption and the dreadful cough I had looked like it, sure enough. I tried everything I could hear of, for my cough, and was under the treatment of the best doctor in Georgetown, S. C., for a year, but could get no relief. A friend advised me to try Dr. King's New Discovery. I did so, and was completely cured. I feel that I owe my life to this great throat and lung cure." Its positively guaranteed for coughs, colds and all bronchial affections. 50c and $1.00 Trial bottle free at Blackmer & Tanquary.

Hogan Renders Decision

Columbus, O., July 13.—That equity auditors, boards of review and boards of equalization, by authorization of general statutes and the state tax commission, in turn authorized by the Hollinger act, can compel disclosure of deposits in banks and building and loan associations for the purpose of taxation, is declared by Attorney General Hogan in an opinion rendered today to the state tax commission.

Lad Proves Real Hero.

Zanesville, O., July 13.—Ted Hastings, 7, proved himself a hero at Caldwell when he swam into Duck creek and rescued Warren Hastings, 8, his brother, and Paul McCleary, 8, from drowning. The lad made a third trip into the swift current to rescue Knowles McCleary, 4, the third bather, but young McCleary had been carried under and drowned.

Makes Fatal Mistake.

Hamilton, O., July 13.—Frank Collins, 40, of Collinsville, was tossed 30 feet in the air and badly hurt when he attempted to board an auto hose car, which he mistook for a street car. The car was moving at the rate of 30 miles an hour when the accident occurred. Collins is bruised from head to foot and can not recover.

Bottle Blowers Help McNamara's.

Columbus, O., July 13.—At the convention of the bottle blowers of the United States and Canada, it was voted to assess each of the 10,000 members 10 cents toward a fund to defray expenses of the defense of the McNamara brothers, charged with numerous murders in connection with the Los Angeles Times explosion.

The President's Military Map.

There is in the offices of the White House a map twenty feet long and eight feet high which indicates at a glance the military information needed by the commander in chief of the army and navy. This map represents the entire world. Different colors show at once the possessions of twelve great powers. Submarine cables, railways, steamship lines, mail routes, are all distinctly traceable. The naval and military forces of the various nations are indicated by miniature flags. Those representing the United States bear the names of commanders and are readily shifted as the forces move from place to place. The cavalry, artillery and infantry are represented by flags of their respective colors—yellow, red and white—giving the number of the regiment and the letter of the troop, battery or company. Even the smallest hospital corps is marked by a tiny red cross. Ships of every class are shown by red, white and blue flags bearing the name of each and number of her guns.—Harper's Weekly.

HOTEL BEDS ABROAD.

To Get Into Some of Them One Has to Use a Stepladder.

The European bed always strikes the uninitiated American traveler as a huge joke. In France they commence to impress him with their height and narrowness, and he looks dubiously at the enormous Turkey red cotton "couvre pied" of eiderdown, which seems something like a mountain, and he wonders how he is ever going to bear all that extra weight on his person. But when he has slipped between the sheets and the grateful warmth communicates itself to his cold bones—if it is winter they are sure to be like icicles—he discovers that it is deceptively light and deliciously comfortable.

In Switzerland the beds attain a little more height, but it is in Germany that they become of such an altitude as to necessitate a pair of steps to mount them. One tourist, finding that one leg of the stepladder was broken, solved his difficulty by going to the extreme end of the room, taking a running start and landing with a flying leap in the midst of the Turkey red eiderdown. He crawled in under the crocheted counterpane and was soon fast asleep. Some time in the night he became sleepily aware of a consuming thirst and started to get out of bed for a drink. A startled shriek, followed by some swear words that even the thick headed German watchman understood, penetrated to the remotest chamber in the inn.

"I was half awake," he explained afterward, "and had been dreaming of standing on Table rock, in the Yosemite. I started to get out of bed—and began to fall. Naturally I supposed I was plunging to the bottom of that precipice, and I'll leave it to you if any one wouldn't have let out a yell when he thought he was going to be dashed to death."

Sometimes in European hotels the tourist is taken solemnly to one side and told that by paying a few francs or lire more he can have the royal bedchamber. A certain hotel in Sorrento, where a dozen or more royal heads have lain in one season, is even more generous, for if the rooms are empty they make no extra charge. And the traveler loves to recount when he is back on his native heath how his cheek pressed the same pillow that had been used by the little queen of Holland or the king of Saxony.—New York Tribune.

TIMELY HINTS FOR FARMERS

Summer Orchard Cultivation.

Cultivation of the orchard should generally be stopped by the end of July. Especially is this the case with old orchards that are being cultivated for the first time. An orchard, however, that has been cultivated constantly will receive little injury by cultivation at any time of the year.

It will then stop growing in midsummer and will spend the rest of its time and energy in hardening its wood. But the orchard that has not been cultivated in the spring of the year will be injured by cultivation in the late summer or fall. If, however, the trees are heavily laden with fruit, cultivation may continue a little later than if the trees were almost quite bare.

The extra amount of available plant food will then aid in producing the fruit, and the late development of buds and wood will not occur. In fact, during a dry season the late cultivation will prevent the fruit laden trees from becoming weakened from lack of moisture.

Keeping Poultry Runs Fresh.

There is more or less dry weather during the summer, and the runs not infrequently become baked and in heavy soils more or less filthy. The man who has the best interests of his flock at heart will once a week use a hand plow in such yards and stir up the soil, so as to make it loose and fresh. If he does this at night, the next morning the fowls will get at work scratching, hunting worms and stirring things generally. It is wonderful how much they find in this turned up soil that furnishes them both amusement and food.

Summer Turnips.

The turnip requires a rich soil. It does best on freshly broken land. The late turnips may be sown broadcast after some crop has been removed, generally during July or August. They may be stored in the cellar the same as carrots. To get the best quality of turnip it must be rapidly grown on rich, sandy land, free from fresh manure.—American Cultivator.

Worms in Horses.

One of the best remedies for worms in horses is: Calomel, two drams; ginger, one ounce; aloes, six drams; turpentine, one ounce; raw linseed oil, one pint. Divide into two doses and give one in the evening and the other in the morning. Follow this with a teaspoonful of dry sulphate of iron in the dry feed once each day for ten days.

THE FOAL'S FEET NEED ATTENTION.

An Important Matter That Is Often Neglected.

Many foals during the first months of their lives grow bad feet and stand badly, partly from nature and partly from lack of proper exercise on hard ground. Frequently the foal is compelled to remain in the stalls during the early sucking period, and this will almost always bring on abnormally developed feet. Lack of exercise on hard ground will allow the feet to grow faster than they wear off, hence the enlargement. Also, whether the foal has exercise or not during the very young stage, often the feet will be more or less irregular.

The foal's feet should be examined and trimmed frequently during the first six or eight months of its life, and they should receive regular attention till the foal becomes a full grown work horse. After the first few trials the young foal will allow its feet to be examined and trimmed without trouble. In fact, it will soon seem to enjoy the work. In trimming the foal's feet trim them so that they will be reasonably short and level. Since the hoofs are comparatively soft during its young age the work of trimming can best and easiest be done with a strong, sharp pocketknife.

Where the hoofs of a foal are not trimmed and it is inclined to stand or walk abnormally there will be more wearing on one part than another of the hoof to accentuate the abnormality. By frequent trimming during the early months of its life and keeping the feet perfectly level the feet and legs will gradually grow to normal position and shape, and the foal will walk with more ease and appear better generally. Allow the foal the freedom of a good pasture as much as possible to allow the feet to wear and harden.

CHERRY HOTEL FLATS THREATENED BY FIRE ONLY SLIGHTLY DAMAGED

A blaze in the roof of the Cherry Hotel Flats, immediately back of the Cherry Hotel on Market street and owned by Dr. C. F. Dennis, called the fire department out Wednesday evening at five o'clock.

The fire was eating its way through the roof near one of the chimneys, and had gained a good foothold when the department arrived, but it was soon extinguished with only a few dollars damage resulting.

The location of the fire, and the nature of the building made it doubly dangerous, and the Cherry Hotel, the residence of Dr. Dennis and that of Mr. George Jackson, would have fallen prey to the flames if they had gotten beyond control.

Some delay was experienced in leaving the engine house as Chief Paul was at supper, leaving Lem Mayo alone. Through the assistance of those who hurried to the engine house both hose wagon and hook and ladder truck were sent out.

The rotten sections of hose used at the fire contained 21 leaks, one section containing more than half of this number. The department has several hundred feet of new hose which has never been used but a few times.

Sabina Campmeeting All Counties Plans Are All Made Are Interested

The first day of the Ohio Conference Camp Meeting at Sabina, will take place Thursday, August 24th, this year, and as usual, the camp meeting will be held in the beautiful grove known as the camp meeting grounds.

The first day will be known as Children's Day. All Sunday schools of Sabina and vicinity, regardless of denomination, are invited to be present in a body. A large American flag will be given to the school having the largest percentage of enrollment present. Tobin's Band and Concert Co., will furnish music for the occasion. Friday a program of rare talent has been arranged. Hon. Geo. W. Thompson and Hon. B. F. McDonald will both lecture on that day.

Dr. King of Pittsburgh, who was there last year, is re-employed and will be present the last three days of Conference. The Otterbein Quartet and Bell Ringers will furnish the program on Music Day. Prof. Ray D. Mohr of Ashley, O., comes well recommended and will have charge of the music throughout the entire meeting. Many special features have been arranged for this meeting. The Camp Meeting Board have ordered the hitching park enlarged so there will be ample room for all who drive. Don't forget the Camp Meeting.

No Per Diem For the Sealers Says Hogan

Deputy county sealers of weights and measures who were created by the 1911 general assembly, must be paid a monthly or yearly salary, says Attorney General Hogan. In several counties it was proposed to compensate them on a per diem basis, but this can not legally be done. Hogan says Dairy and Food Commissioner Strode says there is sufficient work in every county to keep the deputies busy all year.

Wagner's Parentage.

Discussing the recently published autobiography of Richard Wagner, the Oesterreichische Wochenschrift, says that no one will ever know whether the truth has all been published as to the master's parentage. "It is a fact, though, that he was registered at school as Richard Geyer and did not take the name Wagner until he was fourteen years old," says this authority. "It is also a fact that the recently published history was seen in manuscript by Motil years ago at Wahnfried. In its original form Ludwig Geyer was named as Wagner's father. Geyer's portrait hung in the villa next to that of Wagner's mother, and there was no portrait of the Saxon police attorney, Wagner, to be seen anywhere."

Fighting the Hatpin.

Another step has been taken in Prussia against the use of long hatpins, according to the Berlin correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph. The railway administration of Saarbrücken has given orders to its officials that women whose headresses are transfixed by these weapons are to be requested to remove them, and if they decline they shall be prevented from traveling by trains and be called upon to leave the stations. If they refuse acquiescence they will render themselves liable to a fine. "Possibly the Prussian official is the only one in the world who could carry out these instructions without feelings of embarrassment," says Fall Mail Gazette.

Knew She Had Forgotten.
She had just returned from a shopping tour tired, but radiant. He had just returned from the office tired, but well, tired. Quivering with delight at the array of samples snipped from rolls of dress goods, she emptied the contents of her purse into her lap. There was a metallic sound. A look of dismay crossed her face.

"There!" she exclaimed. "I just knew there was something I had forgotten to buy!"
"What was it, dear?" he asked, with an assumption of interest.
"I'm sure I don't know," she replied petulantly. "But I find I have a half dollar left."—Boston Herald.

Perhaps?
One of ex-Governor Pennypacker's best stories—and he has a rare collection of real witty stories—is one bearing upon the prevalence of divorce. At a recent meeting, when he discussed the need of uniform divorce laws, the ex-governor told the story, saying:

"Too many Americans are in sympathy with the little schoolboy who was asked to write his idea of Greek marriage customs.

"After a little thought the lad wrote: 'Among the Greeks a man only married one wife, which was called monogamy.'—Philadelphia Times.

His Mistake.
"Just one, darling," he pleaded as fools do.
"One moment," she said, restraining him. "Tell me first, have you ever kissed another girl?"
"Never!" he swore.
"Then," she said, "you may get your hat, for you're either a liar or a dead one, and I'm neither a reformator nor a miracle worker."—Baltimore Sun.

The Declaration of Independence
The most pretentious patriotic picture ever attempted. A marvelous filmization of the greatest event in American history. This reel covers not only the subject matter, but The Boston Tea Party, Paul Revere's Ride, the Red-Coats' Retreat from Lexington and the Life of John Hancock, first signer of the Declaration.

NEW TALES THAT ARE TOLD

The Right Kind of Justice.
Notwithstanding the fact that he now holds the highest judicial office in the world Chief Justice White continues his walks on Pennsylvania avenue, goes to his physical trainer three times a week and puts on no lugs whatever. Not long ago a friend found him standing in the lobby of a Washington hotel building, a letter in his hand. He then went up and said to the clerk, "I would like to engage a room here for a lady from Louisiana, a relative of mine."
"Nothin' doin'," said the clerk.
"What do I understand you to say?" inquired the chief justice.
"Not a room in the house vacant for that week," snapped the clerk.
The chief justice blinked his eyes, said "Thank you" politely and went out.
The friend who had spoken to the chief justice remained in the hotel lobby.

"Nothin' doin'," said the clerk.
by. When there was a chance he went to the desk and said to the clerk, "Do you know who that was you just turned down for a room?"
"No. Who was it?"
"The chief justice of the United States."
"Great Scott!" exclaimed the clerk. "Don't tell the boss." Somebody did tell the boss, however, and next morning the chief justice was waited on by a representative of the hotel, who told him he could have a room, a suit or a door for the lady from Louisiana and if he would kindly indicate what he desired they would have the rooms sent up to him for inspection. ROOSEVELT AND THE SCHOOLMASTER Story That Was Not Relished by the Former President.

"I never saw Mr. Roosevelt riled but once," said a New York banker. "It was over a twin story. Mr. Roosevelt, you know, regards twins, triplets and even quadruplets as great and unmixed blessings, and he won't let any one poke fun at them."
"A schoolmaster told the twin story in the smoking room of a hotel out west without intending any offense to Mr. Roosevelt."
"He said that a pupil of his turned up at school one morning nearly an hour late."
"Tommy," the schoolmaster demanded, "what is the meaning of this?"
"We got company at our house," Tommy replied.
"What?" said the schoolmaster.
"Two's company, ain't it?" said Tommy. "Well, it's two little sisters. They come early this mornin' with Dr. Smith, and pop looks awful worried." The banker smiled and shook his head.
"But you should have heard," he said, "the lecture that Mr. Roosevelt read that schoolmaster on race suicide."

Modish Bathing Suit.
Some of the very smartest bathing suits are of black taffeta, the effective contrast of sapphire blue or emerald green being sometimes provided by yoke or collar. The new bullet buttons of oxidized silver or gold are also in evidence on many decorative and durable toilets for the sea. These to be chic should be completed by a turban headdress in that same blue or green and a pair of the black satin boots which are the novelty of the season.

Still another pretty way of trimming these black silk suits is to border the neck of the kimono bodice with a wide band of, say, pale blue foulard spotted or striped with white and to further finish off the tunic with groups of little gold buttons.
The bathing suit pictured here is of taffeta with a silk jersey over which falls a collar of plain and striped silk.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Man and His Ways.

"The boldest grafter I ever knew," says a friend, "was a summer resort hotel man with whom I became involved last August. I spent three days at his joint and couldn't stand it any longer. When I called for my bill I said very severely:
"I think you advertised magnificent scenery up here?"
"Yes, sir, I did."
"With good fishing?"
"Good fishing too."
"Pure air and no mosquitoes?"
"That's the way my advertisement read, sir. You quote correctly."
"No flies, no malaria, airy rooms, unsurpassed table, etc?"
"Exactly. Is there anything wrong?"
"Is there anything wrong? Where is the scenery?"
"There isn't any."
"Where are the fish?"
"I never knew of a fish being caught in these parts."
"The flies are fierce, and the mosquitoes are still worse, aren't they? And your rooms are stuffy, and your table is rotten."
"You're right."
"Then you admit you lied about the place?"
"Oh, is that what you've been trying to get at? Why didn't you say so in the first place? Sure I lied. I'd have admitted that a half an hour ago if you'd mentioned it and saved you a lot of talk. Your bill for the three days will be $10.75. Come again next season."—Boston Traveler.

The Silo a Money Saver.
Silage is the salad for the cow. It not only supplies food elements in itself, but it helps in the digestion and assimilation of other feeds. And don't forget that the silo is the only means yet devised by which all of the corn crop can be saved. —Kansas Farmer.

Feed After Milking.
The cows should not be fed their roughage nor the bedding be stirred up before milking, and as far as possible the barn should be opened and aired also before milking time, so that the foul air which taints milk so readily may escape.

FICHUS OF OLD LACE AND FLOWER HATS

With Sprigged Gowns They Are Quaint and Picturesque.

Fichus and flower hats are very popular with the summer girl. Whether the flower hat is a result of the filmy fichu, or vice versa, one is the complement of the other, and neither could be worn with its present effectiveness without the other.

One clever girl resurrected an organdie dress long ago relegated to the back closet. The fabric showed a shadow design of pink roses on a white background, the shadow leaves of green giving just the proper contrast. She cut out the high necked yoke and draped about the shoulders a fichu of soft white material, thin and graceful as chiffon. The edge was finished with a dotted frill of the material and caught together in front with an old fashioned pin.

With it she wore a wide leghorn hat wreathed with pink roses so natural looking one wanted to breathe their fragrance. A wide streamer of black velvet ribbon was caught underneath the chin in picturesque fashion.

Regarding the flower hat, the imagination may run riot in the matter of ribbons. One of the favorite bouquets for draping over the willow is a spray of pink and white variegated shades.

Another flower lending itself fully to hat adornment is wisteria. One lingerie hat of unusual distinction was of white point d'esprit, the entire brim covered with pale pink and lavender wisteria.

Lilies in either a combination of purple and white or the colors used alone are effective. Striking indeed was a broad soft belted black chape with a loose wreath of American Beauty roses and field daisies. White chrysanthemums with white roses is becoming to the girl who wears a gray many fine lingerie frocks.

Hair Ornaments.

Black velvet bands studded with gold or jeweled buckles are used to adorn the classic style of coiffure, while the more coquettish girl uses them finished with a knot on each end, a spray of silver argent on one side or a bunch of drooping silk rose balls.

Satin ribbon is used as a twist, soft folds, flat bands, plain, embroidered, beaded, lace appliqued; so is gilt, with a bow, fan or knot just back of the left ear.

Too Personal.

Patrolman Casey had ordered a pair of shoes at Rosenbri's store and was about to try one of them on when the clerk reached for it and dextrously sprinkled some French chalk in it to ease the forthcoming strain. When he handed it back the patrolman threw it on the floor, pulled on his own shoe and started out.

The proprietor had noted the scene. "What's the matter, Mr. Casey?" he panted as he caught up with him. "Was the clerk sassy or anything?"
For a moment Casey glared at him in almost speechless anger, then observed with icy dignity, "If I can't come into a place to try on a pair of shoes without havin' chloride of lime put in them beforehand I'll trade somewhere else."—Success Magazine.

Strong Enough to Toil.

The common idea of an artist is a slight, pale cheeked little person with a flowing tie and an anaemic disposition. Herman Dudley Murphy, the Boston artist, stands six feet and some inches high. His shoulders are broad and his muscles hard from continued exercise in his canoe and yacht. A woman entered his studio the other day and asked to see Mr. Murphy.
"That's him standing over there," the attendant said.
The woman looked where Mr. Murphy stood, towering like an ancient Viking, and gasped.
"Why," she whispered in surprise to the clerk, "he's big enough to work, isn't he?"—Boston Traveler.

A Little Printer's Ink Makes Millions Think—Think—Think!

More truth than poetry. A little Printer's Ink prints a little advertisement in a little "magazine" that circulates at a little price and goes into a million little homes, chiefly in the little cities and towns and country places.

The millions of people in these homes are caused by the Printer's Ink to think that they can get big bargains for their money by sending it away by mail, ordering the things advertised by the little pinch of Printer's Ink.

Sometimes when they receive the stuff they order by mail they have another Think coming. They think, "What fools we mortals be," and apply the Think to themselves. And sometimes some of them think something like this:

"Wonder why Mister Man, our local dealer in many things we need, doesn't advertise these things in our local paper? Maybe if he did we wouldn't be tempted to send to the big city for these same things. If we were sure we could buy them at home for about the same price and have a chance to see the goods before taking, we think we'd prefer to buy them at home."

Now, Mister Man, what do you think—think—think?

CONCLUSION: THERE'S PLENTY OF PRINTER'S INK IN THIS NEWSPAPER SHOP.

Maine's First Hotel.
Maine's first public hotel was built in 1654. Waddock's Ordinary, erected near Old Orchard, according to a Saco historian, is entitled to the distinction. The old tavern was erected by Henry Waddock and stood almost within sight of the large summer hostleries which fringe the crescent shaped beach at Old Orchard.—Kennebec Journal.

"Mamma, the doctor's boy next door made faces at me."
"And what did you do?"
"I stuck out my tongue at him."
"Dear, dear! And what did the bad boy do then?"
"He just said it was badly coated."

LAUGHTER AND TEARS.

A Comedy Scene in Which Grief Played a Leading Part.

"Stage fright is not one of the emotions which get across the footlights," writes Miss Alice Crawford. "Audiences are for the most part as serenely unconscious of it as they are of other individual sentiments in the actors having no relation to the incidents of the play."

"I shall never forget an instance of this curious insensibility of the crowd. Once when I was touring one of the most charming and popular girls of the company died after only a few days' illness. She was one of those sweet, tranquil natures and had endeared herself to us all. Her death in lodgings in the small provincial town had an element of real tragedy in it."

"The news that she was dead reached the theater in the evening just as two of the actors and I were about to go on for a scene of broad comedy. We went on the stage with tears in our eyes, and I can still see the face of one of those comedians with the great tears glistening on the paint. He was dreadfully affected. Try as he would, he could not control his voice, and the tears kept choking him as he rattled off his lines."

"The audience were convulsed every time his voice broke, and it made me cry more than ever to see the grief shaking him as he grinned and chaffed through his tears. Yet that comedy scene never went so well before. The audience never guessed."—Exchange.

Rivulets and the Rivers.

All are to be men of genius in their degree—rivulets or rivers, it does not matter, so that the souls be clear and pure, not dead walls, encompassing dead heaps of things known and numbered, but running waters in the sweet wilderness of things unnumbered and unknown, conscious only of the living banks, on which they partly refresh and partly reflect the flowers, and so pass on.—Ruskin's "The Stones of Venice."

STORY OF A MUD HEN.

And the Man Who Tried to Shoot or Drown the Bird.

"It is a mighty hard thing to down a mud hen," said a Portland official. "Every one knows this homely bird, so clever that it can dodge the flash of a gun, making it very hard to kill if any one ever wanted to kill one."

"A friend of mine who was a great hunter, but not acquainted with the mud hen, was out hunting on the Columbia sloughs some years ago when he saw what he thought was some kind of duck floating on the water. He aimed his shotgun and fired, but the bird dived as the gun was discharged, and the shot struck the water where the bird had been a moment before. As the smoke cleared away the hunter saw the bird come to the surface, and he gave it the other barrel, with the same result."

"His obstinacy was now aroused, and he determined to kill that bird before he left the place. He shot away every round of ammunition he had, but the bird dodged every one and still floated in the same spot. In great disgust my friend sat down on the bank and lit his pipe. At the first puff of smoke the bird dived again, and this gave him his inspiration."

"To make a short story, he smoked up all his tobacco in an effort to drown the mud hen, but when darkness fell and he started for home the bird was still floating in the same old spot."—Portland Oregonian.

She Had Noticed.

He was talking to the pessimistic, sharp-tongued dandy.

"Have you noticed," he asked, "that, as a rule, bachelors are wealthier than married men?"

"I have," she replied.

"How do you account for it?" he inquired.

"The poor man marries and the rich one doesn't," she answered. "A man is much more disposed to divide nothing with a woman than he is to divide something, you know."

BALANCING THE SEXES.

Singular, Isn't It, the Way Nature Preserves the Equilibrium?

One of the most subtle and interesting problems of life, according to the eminent statistician and student of heredity, Professor R. J. Ewart, is the numerical relationship of sex and its influence upon the body politic. The woman's rights movement is in essence a mathematical and statistical problem, according to him. There is not a general advance of woman, as some sociologists assert. There is a sudden manifestation of her power, a period of supremacy and then a decline of her status.

The explanation is statistical mainly. True, it has always been something of a puzzle why the proportion of each kind, apparently with little or no underlying reason, is produced in the right numbers. The argument that if such were not the case the particular species would not survive does not reveal to us the methods by which this object has been achieved. That some mechanism must exist by means of which within certain limits the number of males and females born is regulated is proved by the facts of history, where we have numerous examples of wars and other social upheavals where males have largely suffered, and yet within an apparently short period of time, as measured by such events, a balance has again been established.

The sex equilibrium may be compared to that of a gyroscope, where the greater the disturbance of position the greater is the force tending to re-establish its natural stand while in motion.—Current Literature.
